INVESTORS IN AMERICA WILL BE PROTECTED

INFORMATION ABOUT SECURITIES WILL BE PUBLISHED

Washington, May 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt put the protective arm of the government about security investors today to guard against fraudulent issues that have totaled the estimated sum of $25,000,000,000 in the last ten years.

The legislation requiring full publicity of new security issues to show the public all pertinent data relating to the paper was signed by the president with a statement that it was aimed "to correct some of the evils which have been so glaringly revealed in the private exploitation of the public's money."

Prepare Regulations

Members of the federal trade commission who will administer the new act were at the White House signing and immediately set to work to prepare rgulations to put the law into effect.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, Representative Rayburn (D., Tex.) and Senator Fletcher (D., Fla.), who guided the legislation through congress, also were beside the president when he signed the bill.

"If the country is to flourish," said Mr. Roosevelt, "capital must be invested in enterprise. But those who seek to draw upon other people's money must be wholly candid regarding the facts on which the investor's judgment is asked.

"To that end this bill requires the publicity necessary for sound investment. It is, of course, no insurance against errors of judgment. That is the function of no government. It does give assurance, however, that, within the limit of its powers, the federal government will insist upon knowledge of the facts on which alone judgment can be based.

"The new law also will safeguard against the abuses of high-pressure salesmanship in security flotations. It will require full disclosure of all the private interests on the part of those who seek to sell securities to the public."

The law requires that both domestic and foreign issues be registered with the federal trade commission for twenty days before they are advertised or sold. The commission can issue a stop order against any security if it found fraud or misrepresentation was involved.

The legislation also carries the proposal of Senator Johnson (R., Calif.) setting up a corporation of foreign security holders to help American investors in defaulted foreign bonds recover as much as possible of their money.

The federal trade commission issued a statement asserting:

"It will be the aim and purpose of the federal trade commission under the authority of the act to prevent further exploitation of the public by the sale of fraudulent and worthless securities through misrepresentation, to place adequate and true information before investors, and to protect honest enterprise seeking capital by honest representations against the competition afforded by securities offered through crooked promotion and misrepresentation."

Five Robbers Being Sought By Officers

Detroit, May 27, (AP)—Search was being made by detectives on Saturday night for five men who earlier in the day forced their way into the home of Harry Tasse and after kicking and beating Mrs. Tasse ransacked the house and escaped with $2,700. The money belonged to Mrs. Tasse and Mrs. Veronica Bondoi. Mrs. Tasse had planned to use her share of it in a trip to Rumania and Mrs. Bondoi intended to send her part to Rumania to pay off a mortgage on her mother's home.

RUSSIAN TRADE, BROOKHART AIM

Former Senator Picked to Develop Market for Farm Produce

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Former Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, named today by administration agriculture leaders to develop foreign trade for American farm products, tonight disclosed that he was seeking new trade arrangements with Soviet Russia and that "already some very important moves have been made."

Brookhart said that his relations with the Soviet would have nothing to do with recognition, "although as far as I am concerned I have always favored recognition." He added, however, that even without recognition, Russia presented 'a really great field" for the sale of American farm products.

Appointment of the former Iowa senator was announced today by George N. Peek, chief administrator of the new farm relief act. He himself said that Brookhart's work as a special advisor would be concentrated on developing the possibilities of trade with eastern European countries.

Is Fertile Market

"Russia has 160,000,000 people who are being raised up to a new civilization from a comparatively primitive state. Their program of development is being done well and they are doing it faster than anyone else ever has. But there will be an immense demand there for farm goods for many years."

Brookhart asserted that "if we had the arrangements last year," the United States could have sold 2,000,000 bales of cotton in Soviet Russia. He said Mills there were running far below capacity.

He considered wheat also a commodity that could be sold in Russia despite the immense amounts produced there.

"They are using more of their own wheat inside the country now," he said. "They are feeding their people more. Some years they'll have a surplus, but other years they'll be open for sales from the United States."

Pardon Racket Is Being Investigated

Detroit, May 27 (AP)—W. Alfred Debo, commissioner of paroles and pardons, today revealed that an investigation has been launched into activities of a group engaged in what was described as a "racket" in which relatives and friends of inmates of Michigan penal institutions have been approached with promises of pardon or release on payment of substantial sums of money.

Debo said relatives of prisoners in Detroit, Flint, Pontiac, Port Huron, Benton Harbor and Saginow have been approached. The method was to ask for a down payment, with the remainder when the prisoner was released.

POLICE START WIDE SEARCH IN 7 STATES

RICH WIDOW FOUND BRUTALLY SLAIN IN HER BED

Flint, Mich., May 27 (AP)—A widespread search was under way tonight for 17 year old Belle Macdonald, whose disappearance was noted this morning coincident with the discovery that his mother, Mrs. Grace B. Macdonald, 54, wealthy and socially prominent widow, had been beaten to death in her bedroom.

Mrs. Macdonald's body, the head crushed in and covered with pillows, was found by Wesley Flowers and his wife, Doris, employed as houseman and maid by Mrs. Macdonald. Under the same pillows were found two heavy book-ends with which she apparently had been slain.

Hint $1,000 Missing

The search for young Macdonald started immediately after Detective Charles Raab reported that Mrs. Macdonald had called him to the palatial home in Crescent Drive yesterday to discuss the boy's habits. At this conference, Raab said, the youth had threatened to kill himself because he felt his mother was too critical of his conduct.

During the police investigation of the home today a report gained circulation that $1,000 which Mrs. Macdonald was known to have had in the house, was missing. The officers would neither affirm nor deny the report.

Word that young Macdonald and a companion in an automobile stopped at a gasoline filling station at 4 a. m. today and sought directions to Chicago, caused authorities to notify police in that city as well as all points enroute to be on the lookout for him. The search was extended to Topinabee, Mullet Lake, north of here, where Mrs. Macdonald had a summer cottage. She had planned to leave for the cottage today.

The operator of the gasoline station said the young man he identified as Macdonald had a large roll of bills when he paid for gasoline this morning. Macdonald's roadster was a gift from his mother.

Mrs. Macdonald's husband was the late Bruce J. Macdonald, for 32 years cashier of the old First National Bank here. He died about 12 years ago. She came here from Portland, Ore., as a bride in 1906, and became one of the leaders of local society.

She was one of the organizers of the Flint Y. W. C. A., one of the founders of the Flint Art Institute and the Flint Concert association, contributing heavily to the support

Mussolini's Pact Agreed By France And Great Britain

Paris, May 27. (AP)—France and Great Britain tonight agreed on terms of the Mussolini four-power pact, the signature of which is expected soon in government quarters.

The deadlock over the terms was broken when R. H. Campbell, British charge d'affaires, presented an aide memoire to Premier Daladier agreeing to the inclusion of article 16 of the League of Nations covenant on which France had insisted.

Those close to the French premier said the British acceptance removed the last obstacle to French signature of the agreement.

The text of the four power accord was sent to Berlin whose acceptance, with that of Italy, is expected shortly.

Congress Adjournment Is Fixed for June 10th

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt and congressional leaders speeded up the emergency program today and fixed June 10—two weeks hence—for adjournment of the extra session.

The president informed Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, he would send up next week one more piece of legislation—a proposal giving him power to raise or lower tariff rates in accordance with reciprocal agreements with other nations.

The White House conference also wiped war debts action off the calendar of business for this session but there was a very definite intimation that Mr. Roosevelt would send a message to congress informing it before adjournment of the status of his debts negotiations.

The next payments are due June 15. The president is still talking with the foreign powers who are urging relief all the way from a postponement to an 80 percent cut in the installments. No agreement appears near.

The senate passed the Roosevelt railroad measure creating a federal coordinator to guide the carriers through reorganization in the interests of economy and establishing the lines on a paying basis.

Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill extending federal supervision over the issuance of new securities.

The house will take up next week the railroad measure and also the tariff resolution which is expected from the White House in a few days. A finish before the end of the week is predicted by Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the Democratic leader.

The president has not put his final approval on the language of the tariff resolution but as now drafted it would give him power to raise or lower duties in accordance with international agreements, subject to disapproval by congress within sixty days.

It is understood the resolution will fix limits, probably 50 percent, on the changes which may be made in the tariff schedules. The law now permits such changes upon recommendation of the tariff commission.

The public work industrial control bill is the measure now occupying prime consideration by congress and the White House. It passed the house yesterday by an overwhelming vote and Rabinson predicted it would receive an early report from the finance committee for senate consideration.

SENATE FAVORS RAIL ECONOMIES

Federal Coordinator to Revise Lines Wins Approval

Washington, May 27. (AP)—The administration bill granting power to a federal coordinator to work out economies in railroad operations was passed by the senate today and sent to the house where it will encounter opposition because of senate amendments to prohibit dismissals of employes in effecting retrenchments.

A similar measure before the house commerce committee is expected to be reported next week, but Democratic leaders at that end of the capitol said it would not carry the labor clauses put in by the senate at the request of the railway labor unions.

Would Eliminate Duplication

As passed by the senate after a six-hour day amendment had been withdrawn on announcement that President Roosevelt was against it, the measure suspends the anti-trust laws for one year and authorizes a federal coordinator to effect economies in cooperation with three railroad regional committees by:

Eliminating unnecessary duplication of services, arranging for joint use of terminals and trackage, taking steps to avoid waste and promoting financial reorganizations to reduce fixed charges and improve carrier credit. This section is for a two year emergency period, but it could be extended another year if the president desired.

The bill has two permanent sections, one repealing the recapture clause of the transportation act retroactively and the other placing railroad holding companies under federal control.

Although the coordinator could not fix rates, the bill sets up a new basis for rate-making by declaring broadly that the interstate commerce commission shall give consideration, in fixing rates, to their effect on traffic movements, the need of adequate, efficient railway service at the lowest cost consistent with furnishing it, and the need of revenues sufficient to enable the roads to provide this service.

An amendment adopted at the request of Senator Norris (R-Neb) would require the commission to fix rates to give a fair return upon either a basis of prudent investment or cost of reproduction new, whichever was the lowest.

The action was not interpreted by senators as blocking a shorter work day for other industries, but as merely applying to the railroads.

Woman Beer Seller Is Granted Parole

Lansing, May 27 (AP)—A parole, effective June 16, was announced Saturday for Helen Dykstra, 26 year old Holland woman, sentenced to serve 18 months in the Detroit house of correction for selling 18 pints of beer. A parole also was announced for Mary Frisk, 20, of Toledo, convicted of robbery armed. She was sentenced to five to fifteen years, and her minimum term less good time has expired.

Gets Prison Term For Robbery Armed

Detroit, May 27, (AP)—Judge John A. Boyne in recorders' court Saturday sentenced Sam Daleo, 18, to five years to life in the Michigan reformatory at Ionia, on a charge of robbery armed. He obtained $22.50 in a hold up in West Jefferson avenue on March 22. He previously had been convicted and placed on probation on a similar charge.

FOES OF BANK BILL ATTACKED

Deposit Guarantee Proviso Is Defended by Vandenberg

Washington, D. C., May 27. (AP)—Foes of the limited bank deposit insurance provision in the Glass bill who contend that it is the same as state guaranty systems that have failed, were criticized sharply in the senate today by Senator Arthur Vandenberg, (Rep.), Grand Rapids, Mich., an advocate of the section.

The section of the bill which Sen. Vandenberg referred provides for insurance of deposits of $2,500 or less in state or national banks, which would finance the plan backed by the government.

Appealing to senate conferees on the bank bill, which they now are discussing with spokesmen for the house, Vandenberg contended that his insurance plan would do more to aid business recovery than any other single step.

Defends Clause

Vandenberg denied that the insurance section is a reversion of the old type which has been proved inadequate. "The old and advisedly repudiated system of state guarantee failed because of three things," he declared:

"The risks were confined to localized communities, in violation of the fundamentals of insurance. In the section passed by the senate there is diversified, decentralized risk, spread all over the country.

"All state deposit insurance funds had to collect their losses by immediate assessments on the banks involved. Under the senate plan there is a distinct limitation on an immediate assessment on banks involved.

"The state insurance systems guaranteed all deposits; under the plan as approved by the senate the limit of insurance is $2,500. To the best of our information, less than 25 per cent of the country's deposits are in units of less than $2,500."

Attempted Bribery Charges Dismissed

HUGE PROFITS FOR MORGAN'S HOUSE SHOWN

CAMPAIGN AGAINST PECORA CHARGED BY COUZENS

(Copyright 1933, By The Associated Press)
BY NATHAN ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Profits of untold millions to the House of Morgan through security flotations and syndicate operations were disclosed today in documents obtained from the innermost files of the banking house by senate investigators.

They showed the Morgan firm reported to the investigators gross profits of $18,284,908 from the sale of securities alone during the five year period from 1927 to 1931, inclusive, in addition to untabulated millions on other operations.

Millions in Profits

Bare details of stock pool or syndicate operations in which the Morgan house participated, hinted at uncounted millions of additional profits, but the total could only be guessed because of the form in which it was reported.

Committee investigators have gone back of the figures presented by Morgan and found additional profits which will be totaled and submitted later to the inquiry committee. The Morgan reports showed them only as shares still held.

A joint account in Procter and Gamble company common stock from July 1929 to June 1930, in which Morgan's profits were $1,853,959, revealed the size of some of the operations. A total of 186,900 shares were bought and sold for the account.

The period covered by the figures included two and a half "boom" years and the same number of "depression" years.

Testimony before the committee has shown that the 20 partners in the firm paid total income taxes of $11,000,000 in 1929; $48,000 in 1930, and none in 1931. But the profits revealed today were not divided into years.

One of the most interesting documents was a summary of the operations of the so-called bankers' pool which went into the market in 1929 shortly after the collapse. It showed the pool, listed under the name "Special Suspense Account," made a total profit of $1,067,355, of which Morgan's share was $170,776.

"Subtle Campaign"

As these disclosures were made today, Senator Couzens (R-Mich.), a member of the investigating committee, charged a "subtle campaign" was being conduct-

Army Pilot Bails Out As His Plane Gets Afire In Air

Chicago, May 27 (AP)—Lieut. Norman Burnett, of Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., floated safely to earth beneath his parachute today while his army airplane, which had caught fire, plunged to the ground.

Lieutenant Burnett was one of 54 army pilots who had flown in formation over Chicago while the World's Fair received its first guests.

He was leaving for Michigan when the plane caught fire at an altitude of less than 2,000 feet. Lieutenant Burnett, who was alone, jumped at about 700 feet, and the plane buried itself in the ground.

His home is in Graham, Texas.

"When I noticed my motor had gone dead and the gasoline pressure had dropped, I tried to use the hand gas pump but the motor caught fire," he explained. "It was my first bailing out."

Lieutenant Burnett is a graduate of West Point.

Amendment Proves Aid To Michigan

Lansing, Mich., May 27 (AP)—Word has been received here that through an amendment to the industrial recovery bill, Michigan will gain $800,000 as an addition to its share of the $400,000,000 to be allocated to the states as federal aid for hard surfaced road construction.

Th increase makes Michigan's total $13,377,100.

The amendment changed the basis of allocation from one third each on population, area and mileage, to 50 per cent on population and 25 per cent each on area and mileage.

GLASS ASSAILS TREASURY MOVE

Says Abolition of Gold Clauses Amounts to Rank Repudiation

Washington, May 27 (AP)—The administration's move to abolish the gold clause in existing and future contracts and to make public and private obligations payable in legal tender money today received speedy congressional committee approval and plans were completed for house action on it Monday.

Despite the swift action on the resolution, introduced only yesterday, the proposal was assailed by some in both parties who argued that it constituted "rank repudiation" and nullification of government and private obligations amounting to approximately $100,000,000,000.

Shortly after the house banking committee reported the measure 12 to 4, the senate banking committee voted it out 9 to 3. Then to expedite house action Monday, the rules committee approved procedure giving the resolution right of way.

Defeat Amendment

The resolution would make all contracts, heretofore and hereafter made, payable in legal tender coin, regardless of whether they contain a clause providing for their payment in gold.

By the narrow margin of 7 to 6, the senate group defeated an amendment by Senator Glass (D-Va.), to eliminate obligations to or from the United States government. It was designed to require payments in gold on the $22,000,000,000 in outstanding federal bonds and war debts due the United States from European countries.

As the measure now stands, foreign governments may pay $11,000,000,000 in war debts in United States paper money instead of in gold as contracted, and the United States may pay its bonds in currency instead of gold.

"It is just rank repudiation and that's all there is to it," Senator Glass said. "They can talk themselves blue in the face and they can't make anything else out of it."

Glass joined Kean (R-N. J.), and Gore (D-Okla.), in voting against the bill. In the house committee, Representatives Luce (R-Mass.), Walcott (R-Mich.), Brown (D-Mich.), and Reilly (D-Wis.), voted against the measure.

Earlier, the house group defeated 11 to 5, an amendment by Luce to prevent the measure from becoming retroactive. Luce contended that the "gold clause in existing contracts should not be abrogated."

NO LIVES ARE LOST, MEAGER REPORTS SAY

HAROLD WESTCOAT, FAMILY, AMONG PASSENGERS

Houghton, Mich., May 28 (Sunday) (AP)—Reports reaching here at 12:30 a. m. today said that the passenger steamer George M. Cox which went aground on Rock of Ages reef near Isle Royale in Lake Superior early Saturday evening had rolled over and sunk.

Captin M. L. Gilbert, manager of the Isle Royale Transit company, owners of the vessel, said that George M. Cox, president of the company, and two women, were aboard the freighter Tremaine enroute to Port Arthur, Ont. The two women, whose names were not reported, were said to have been injured. The extent of their injuries was not learned.

The crew and the passengers were reported safe on Rock of Ages reef.

Westcoats Aboard

The reports of the disaster were received here in fragmentary form by wireless from ships in the vicinity. Officials of the line her said that there were about 125 persons aboard the George M. Cox. They said the vessel's wireless ceased to be heard about 6 p. m. Saturday evening. It had been reported earlier that the craft went aground at 8 p. m.

As far as could be learned here there were no fatalities.

Following is a partial list of the passengers aboard the George M. Cox:

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Westcoat and two children, of Houghton.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bloker and their daughter, of New Orleans.

A Mrs. Blake and child, of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gale, of Hancock.

Mrs. Charles Wright, of Hancock.

Bloker is treasurer of the Isle Royale Transit company. Mrs. Blake is said to be the wife of the manager for Cook's Tours agency in Chicago.

Further information regarding the vessel was not immediately available.

Coast Guards Enroute

The steamer left Houghton at 2 p. m. today. The reef is about 60 miles from Houghton. Coast guard craft put out from the Portage Canal station immediately after the report was received by Capt. Fred Soliman, in charge of the station.

The George M. Cox, formerly named the Puritan, is 307 feet long. The vessel was making its first trip to Port Arthur this season.

Weather conditions in the upper lakes were reported good tonight although there was a strong wind blowing.

Two coast guard boats, one from the Portage Canal station, and another from the North Superior station at Grand Marais, Minn., were reported enroute to the disabled vessel. The boats are expected to arrive at the reef at about 2 a. m. Each boat can carry approximately 40 persons.

Later weather reports from the upper lakes said that there was a slight haze over the water which might develop into fog before morning.

BALKS WAIVER OF NEUTRALITY

Senate Comish Tacks on Amendments to Embargo Resolution

Washington, May 27 (AP)—The senate's foreign relations committee today registered unanimous dissent to President Roosevelt's proposed waiver of American neutrality in the interest of maintaining peace.

It attached to the house-approved arms embargo resolution an amendment under which the president, if he should find it necessary to declare such an embargo, must make it apply to all nations involved in the conflict to which it pertains.

Through Norman H. Davis, his ambassador at large, Mr. Roosevelt early this week announced that if a satisfactory measure of arms reduction could be achieved, America would consult with other nations when war threatened and if the aggressor country was satisfactorily identified would take no steps that would defeat collective efforts to avoid or end a war.

Offered by Johnson

The amendment adopted today was offered by Senator Johnson, California's defender of the traditional policy of American isolation. Johnson said it "preserves American neutrality and retains, if an aggressor is to be designated, the right of the congress under the constitution, to act."

While this fore-runner of opposition to ratification of any arms reduction treaty based upon the Roosevelt peace proposal was appearing at the capitol President Roosevelt busied himself with other aspects of international affairs.

He said goodbye to Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, with whom he had discussed all phases of Japanese-American interests, in preparation for the world economic conference at London.

Mr. Roosevelt and the Japanese envoy issued a joint statement saying they were "happy to note" that their "views coincide in regard to practical steps which need to be taken toward solving the outstanding economic problems which are now of common interest and concern to all nations."

The chief executive is maintaining a close watch on developments at the Geneva arms reduction conference. The administration is opposed to suggestions which have emanated from other countries that the arms conference be recessed during the period of the London economic conference.

Senator Robinson (R. Ind.) after the committee had approved the resolution, with the amendment added, announced that he would oppose passage on the floor of the senate.

"I am opposed to the resolution because it places too much power in the hands of the president," he said. "By an indiscreet exercise of that power, even though his intentions were the best, he could easily involve us in a war, and the responsibility for declaring war is a function of congress."

The joint statement of President Roosevelt and Viscount Kikujiro Ishii referred only generally to the two major problems in the background of Japanese-American relations. These are the undeclared war between Japan and China and Japanese proposals at Geneva for a higher naval ratio.

Ishii, upon his arrival here, announced that he could not concur in the Roosevelt definition of an aggressor nation as one whose troops are found on alien soil in violation of treaties. America has opposed at Geneva the Japanese request that reference to the London and Washington naval treaties, fixing the British-American-Japapnese naval ratio at 10-10-6, be eliminated from the pact now under discussion.

ed against Ferdinand Pecora, the counsel who has been conducting the inquiry.

Couzens said charges had been submitted to him designed to "discredit" the aggressive committee agent and that he was calling upon those who made them to submit their proof, if any.

Pecora was the center of the clash in the committee yesterday when Senator Glass (D-Va.), demanded to know where he was heading in his questions.

Other members of the committee said today, however, they were ready to back Pecora to the limit and announced the inquiry would go on.

Chairman Fletcher, in an interview, said the question of whether a single firm could "dominate" American industry and finance was a "matter of public concern" and announced the investigation would "go forward."

Another member of the committee said that "all the power of Wall Street could not stop this investigation now until all is disclosed that should be." While the controversy raged, Pecora was in New York, preparing to resume the inquiry next Wednesday.

Another development today was a statement by members of the committee that they were informed in executive session yesterday that half a dozen of the 20 Morgan partners were indebted to the firm.

The documents about Morgan's operations disclosed a mass of information about the great banking house that had not previously been developed.

They showed the famous banking house had managed 76 security issues over the five year period, amounting to $1,754,380,000, with a total gross profit, before deduction of overhead, of $10,182,776.26.

The firm's affiliate in Philadelphia, Drexel and company, which partners in the firm said was really a part of it, managed 43 issues, totaling $414,194,000 with a profit of $4,426,088.91.

The parent firm participated in issues totalling $3,631,501,600 and 5,646,373 shares of unestimated value, which were managed by others. Its shares of the sales were $344,226,035 and 318,800 shares, with total profits to the firm of $2,877,043.

Drexel's profits from participating in issues managed by other houses were $799,000.

Couple Held For Detroit Abduction

Detroit, May 27 (AP)—Detroit police tonight held Fred McDonald and his wife Marion, sought for three weeks by authorities as the two named in warrants charging them with the abduction of Mrs. Katherine Cowley, 53, widow of a wealthy Oscoda, Mich., lumberman.

Mrs. Cowley, found here tonight at the Santa Barbara drive quarters of the McDonalds', was taken to state police headquarters here where she will remain until relatives reach the city.

The warrants, sworn out by Mrs. Cowley's brother, Ernest R. Bailey, charged McDonald and his wife with abduction and embezzlement. Bailey's complaint alleges that they kept Mrs. Cowley hidden from her relatives so that she could not discuss the management of her estate with them. The estate once was estimated to be worth $200,000.

Cardinals Quick To Adapt Play To Men's Cage Rules

Durant, Okla. (AP)—To prepare themselves for their international championship series with the Edmonton, Atla., Grads early in June, the Oklahoma Presbyterian college Cardinals, national women's cage champions, are learning the men's game from men—the Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers' college team.

The Canadian girls play under men's rules, and the first and last of the three games scheduled—if a decision is not reached in two—will be played at Edmonton under men's rules.

Coach S. F. Babb of the Cardinals expressed himself well pleased with the versatility of his charges in shifting their style of play and the speed with which they adapted themselves to the men's regulations.

The girls enjoyed the greater freedom of the men's rules, Babb said, and found it possible to carry over.

Says Auto Industry Is On The Upgrade

Washington, May 27 (AP)—Alvan MacCauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, believes the automobile industry is on the upgrade.

Replying to a letter from Rep. Harry W. Musselwhite (D. Mich.) that he would oppose "discriminatory taxes on automobiles, directly and indirectly," MacCauley said: "I am most pleased to have your vigorous statement in regard to the matter. Incidentally, I too, favor a general sales tax and so far as I know everyone in the motorcar industry has the same attitude.

"I am glad to be able to advise you that the outlook for the motorcar industry at the moment is somewhat more hopeful. Whether this is merely seasonal or actually indicates that we are moving upwards from the bottom, it's a little too early to say. But I am quite hopeful."

Evidence of Struggle

Flowers and his wife told authorities that they played bridge with Mrs. Macdonald and her son until midnight last night, and that Mrs. Macdonald then went to her room to telephone someone about her son's companions. "I'm going to listen to the conversation," they quoted Balfe as saying. Later, they said, they heard the sound of loud voices from Mrs. Macdonald's room.

This morning Mrs. Flowers found Mrs. Macdonald's body in a rear bedroom of the home on Crescent Road. The room bore evidences of a struggle, furniture and bedding being disarranged. It was 8:30 when the body was discovered. Death had occurred several hours earlier, the coroner said.

Police said that young Macdonald's bed had not been slept in last night, but that it bore evidence of having been mussed, as if someone had thrown himself upon it without turning back the covers.

It was believed that William Terwilliger, a Long Lake youth, was with Macdonald in his car when he purchased gasoline. William Terwilliger, father of the boy, was quoted by police as saying that he had objected to the association of his son wtih young Macdonald, and told them that he had attempted to end their association after he noticed a pronounced change in his son's conduct which he attributed to the friendship.

Arrested April 11

Police today revealed that young Macdonald had been arrested April 11 at his mother's request after a party staged in her absence. He was later released. Probate Judge John A. Baker, it became known, ordered police to pick up the young man Friday night. It was in conformance with these orders that Detective Raab visited the home late Friday night. Balfe left before Raab reached the house, he said.

Detective Raab, in charge of juvenile cases, said he was informed that young Macdonald had threatened his mother, and that he left when she assured him that she needed no further protection.

Late today police reported the discovery in young Macdonald's bedroom of a pair of his trousers which they said bore stains tentatively identified as blood stains. The trousers also were found to have a number of gray hairs clinging to them, which police said may have been from the head of Mrs. Macdonald.

Late tonight police had widened their search for young Macdonald to include Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado and Nebraska. Macdonald was said to have relatives in Nebraska. Police and sheriff's officers were notified throughout these states, and a widespread lookout for the car driven by Macdonald is being maintained.

Funeral services for Mrs. Macdonald will be held Monday or Tuesday at the home, depending upon the arrival of Miss Gwen Laurie Macdonald, 20, daughter of the slain woman. Services will be private, followed by burial at Glenwood cemetery.

101 Ranch Growing Potatoes, Onions

Ponca City, Okla. (AP)—The 101 Ranch, long an empire of the old west, is turning to such prosaic things as onions and potatoes.

As part of his program to rehabilitate the ranch after pulling it from receivership, Col. Zack Miller, last of the three brothers who built the property into a western show place, is experimenting with 100 acres of onions and 160 acres of potatoes.

The ranch is furnishing the land and labor and a produce company the seed, fertilizer and sacks for marketing.

MacFarlane Wins Metropolitan Open

Mamaroneck, N. Y., May 27 (AP)—Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., national open title-holder in 1925, reeled off a couple of birdies just when they were most needed today and beat a crack field for the Metropolitan open championship.

He sank six and eight-foot putts for birdie threes on the last two holes for a fourth round score of 72, a 72-hole count of 291 and a lead of one stroke over Paul Runyan, White Plains star who has been named to the 1933 Ryder cup squad.

Finishing a surprising third with 293 was Dick Metz of the Hollywood club, Deal, N. J., two strokes in front of California's golfing caballero, Olin Dutra, defending champion, national P. G. A. title-holder and, like Runyan, a Ryder cup team member.

Candies Will Give Ice Cream Dessert Variety

About this time of year our thoughts begin to turn to cold desserts and naturally, ice cream comes first to mind. Nourishing and popular with both children and grown-ups, it satisfactorily solves the sweet problem for many hot weather meals.

A very easy way to produce different flavors and varieties of ice cream is to use candy. All the hard varieties of candies, chocolate coated or plain, can be used without additional sugar. Some of the "cream" candies may require a little additional sugar added to the foundation mixture.

Many Candies Suitable

One-half pound of candy is enough to sweeten and flavor one quart of custard or other foundation mixture. There is a wide variety from which to choose. The stick candies, fruit lozenges, the hard "stuffed" candies, the chocolate coated and plain marshmallows, the nut brittles and so on through the list offer flavors for delicious desserts.

Of course, any favorite recipe can be used for the foundation dessert. Junket, custard, mousse, parfait, ice and sherbert can be flavored and sweetened with the candies.

If the candy is crushed and allowed to dissolve in the foundation cream before freezing, an even color is produced. An attractive mottled effect is obtained if the candy is coarsely crushed and added to the cream mixture just before freezing. There will be bits of undissolved candy sprinkled through the frozen cream.

Candy Ice Cream

One pound stick candy, six cups standard or "coffee" cream, one-eighth teaspoon salt.

Scald cream in double boiler. Remove from heat and add salt and finely crushed candy. Cool and turn into freezer cold. Pack in six quarts ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand three or four hours. Serve with hot chocolate sauce or plain, as preferred.

You can use any kind of hard candy that you want, red and white peppermint stick candy, wintergreen sticks, butterscotch and peanut butter filled buttercup candies are especially good. A dozen marshmallows can be quartered and dissolved in the hot cream. This increases the bulk and insures a very smooth, velvety texture. Chocolate-coated molasses chips can be crushed and added to the cream after it has cooled. If you want to use this recipe in a mechanical refrigerator soften one tablespoon granulated gelatine in cold water and stir into the scalding hot cream or add the marshmallows.

It has been estimated that 131 pounds of fuel are required to haul 1000 tons of freight one mile by railroad.

CHICAGO OPENS BIG WORLD FAIR

Star Glow Used to Touch Off Lighting Effects at Exposition

Chicago, May 27 (AP)—Science reached out 240 trillion miles into the universe to inaugurate a Century of Progress illumination tonight and conclude opening day ceremonies for the World's Fair.

Favorable weather conditions at three of four astronomical observatories which trained telescopes on the star, Arcturus, permitted successful accomplishment of the unique plan to touch off the fair lighting effects with star glow.

Only at Harvard university did adverse weather cause the utilization of an alternative plan, for sending artificial light in case of emergency, to be used.

Attendance Is 30,000

Precisely at 9:15 p. m. (C. D. T.) Arcturan light which left the star 40 years ago filtered through the unobscured telescopes, was ensnared by photo-electric cells, amplified and relayed to Chicago and made to turn on a master switch which flashed the fair into its first night of glory.

The scientific drama climaxed the successful opening day's program of the fair which is to last through five months. Official attendance was announced as 60,000.

The crowd watching as science etched its feat of illumination on a huge board in the hall of science court cheered at the sheer beauty of the event.

Rufus C. Dawes, president of the fair, said the act was fitting for an exposition that had as its theme man's achievements, especially in the scientific field.

Observatories participating in the event were—Harvard university, Alleghany, University of Illinois and the University of Chicago's Yerkes. Cloudy weather in the east, however, presumably left to the clear weather stations at Champaign, Ill., and Williams Bay, Wis., the duty of catching the genuine Arcturan rays.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, President Roosevelt's representative, signed a proclamation officially bringing the exposition to life.

The opening ceremonies were brief. Then the assemblage filed out of the Amphitheatre to join those who had come, not for oratory, but to watch and wonder.

Rideout Twins A Great Combination

Tuscola, Ill. (AP)—Blaine Rideout was born just a few minutes earlier than his brother Wayne, about 17 years ago, and he has been just a step or so ahead of his twin, athletically, ever since.

But that doesn't detract from the unusual abilities of either of these Tuscola high school heroes, for individually and as a team they are stars of first magnitude in track and baseball.

They specialize in track, in the mile and half-mile. Blaine usually wins the mile, in which he has been timed in 4:28.2, amazing speed for a high school mile, while Wayne usually cops the 880.

In a pinch, however, Wayne runs the opposition into the ground while Blaine goes on to win the half, also. His time is 2:01.4, while Wayne has been within a second or so of that blistering pace.

Bits of Cheer in Business

Indiana Harbor, Ind., May 27 (AP)—Between 300 and 400 men will return to work June 1, when the Universal Atlas Cement company plant reopens here after a one month shut down, the company announced today. It is a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

Chicago, May 27 (AP)—Freight car loadings in the United States topped the 1932 figure again last week, by 15,990 cars, bringing this year's total to 531,618 as compared with 515,628 cars a year ago, the American Railway Association announced today.

Youngstown, O., May 27 (AP)—Steel mill operations in this district next week will be at 45 per cent of capacity, against 43 per cent this week, mill officials announced.

Elizabeth Ryan And Partner Win French Doubles

Auteuil, France, May 27, (AP)—Elizabeth Ryan, the former California tennis star who was winning tournaments in France as long ago as 1914 today for the third time in four years won a share in the doubles title in the French hard court championships.

Paired with Mme. Rene Mathieu, No. 1 of France, Miss Ryan smashed through to victory over Colette Rosambert and Mme. Henrotin, of France, 6-1, 6-3.

Both of Miss Ryan's previous French titles were won with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who did not compete this year.

Shortly after Miss Ryan and Mme. Mathieu had won their final rain, which also disrupted play yesterday, set in and all matches had to be postponed until tomorrow.

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, picked by the dopesters as the probable French Davis cup pair, suffered a surprising defeat in the semi-finals of men's doubles at the hands of the Australian youngsters, Adrian Quist and Vivian McGrath.

Hermansville Bank Has Bandit Barrier

Hermansville, Mich.—The First National Bank of Hermansville has installed a bandit barrier door opening into the lobby of the bank, the first of its kind to be placed in operation in this section of the state.

In addition to the protection of electrically operated public and silent alarms and federal gas with which the bank has been previously equipped, the barrier door is designed as a further protection against the problem of daylight holdup which usually means a surprise attack.

An electrically operated lock controls the door of the vestibule leading into the lobby, so that patrons are admitted only at the will of employees of the bank. The door immediately and automatically locks after the patron has entered, and the door cannot be opened from the inside either except when released by the bank employee, the control of which is from several locations within the working space of the bank.

The object is to provide safety for the customers as well as the employees of the bank, by building protection into the bank entrance, in an attempt to keep bandits from entering the bank. The installation adds a certain sense of security not only to the employees of the bank but to the patrons as well.

Spartan Baseball Team Is Defeated

East Lansing, May 27 (AP)—Michigan State's baseball team continued in its late season slump today losing to Indiana 10 to 3 in a loosely played game.

State used three pitchers in a vain effort to stop the Hoosiers. Little started on the mound for the Spartans out was ejected by Umpire Slavin, of Grand Rapids, when he protested a decision. Parker, who succeeded him, was removed and Fiedler finished.

Lillian Resembles Her Mother, Says Father of Queen of World's Fair

A grey-haired man, slightly stooped, his hands work hardened and browned, is attempting today to realize that over night he has become one of the famous fathers of the country.

Alexander Anderson, 65, is as proud of his daughter, Lillian, who was crowned queen of the World's Fair, winner of an international beauty contest, as any father might be, but he is still a little bewildered by the sudden prominence in which he has been placed.

"Lillian looks just like her mother," he said yesterday. "She died thirteen years ago, but I wish she could be here to know about Lillian. She must have looked pretty good with so many girls there, too.

"I didn't believe it at first," he continued. "My son told me about it but I thought he was just joking with me. Then he showed me the newspapers. It's really true, isn't it?" he asked.

Attended Schools Here

Lillian, who, as a fair-haired youngster, quiet and unassuming, attended Escanaba high school, was the favored child of her father, it was revealed yesterday by Mrs. Milton Monson, her sister, and her visits to Escanaba, since she left school to start work in Racine when the family finances became low, have been events for her father.

Won't Attend Fair

Asked if he was going to attend the World's Fair over which his daughter will preside as queen, Mr. Anderson said he thought not.

"Chicago is too big a place for me," he replied. "I'd get lost there. Besides, it would take too much money," he added, "and there are taxes to be paid, and other things, and there hasn't been much work the last two years."

Mr. Anderson, who was born in Finland, came to this country forty years ago. He was married in Escanaba, and he has worked here for over thirty years as a car repairman for the Chicago & North Western railway.

In addition to the beauty queen, members of the family are Mrs. Monson, who resides at 1705 Third avenue south; Mrs. Eldredge Dufour, a daughter, 316 North Eleventh street; Axel Anderson, a son, 316 North Eleventh street, and an aunt, Mrs. Oscar Sundman.

Maple Ridge Twp. School Year Ends

Rock, Mich., May 27—Maple Ridge township schools, with but one exception, closed Friday for the regular summer vacation.

Examinations were held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Central school. The pupils of the lower grades held their picnic at the Rapid River falls north of Rapid River Wednesday. On Thursday the three school busses carried the high school students to the same place for their annual party. Through the courtesy of the owners of the Dutch Mill, the students were allowed the use of the pavilion and much of the day was spent dancing.

School was in session from one until two o'clock Friday afternoon, at which time books were returned and checked, note books and examination papers were returned and final report cards issued. After a short general assembly period, the students returned to their homes to spend the summer months.

The North Rock school, taught by Miss Hazel Canfield, will dismiss a week later than usual due tot some time lost in changing teachers. The Hon. P. R. Legg, who taught there early in the year, left about Christmas time for Lansing to enter into his duties as representative of this district at the state capital.

Local teachers who have left for their homes to spend the summer months are: Florence McLain, Lakeville, Minn., Ruth Johnson, Munising; Genevieve Kenny, Schaffer; Leone Firkus and Josephine Work, Escanaba; Anna Quarnstrom and Blanche Mathison, Gladstone; and Eleanor Carlson, Perkins.

THE SCHOOL BILL

THE Thatcher-Sias bill, appropriating $15,000,000 in school aid, the funds to be derived from the proposed sales tax, has passed the house, and will be fought out this week in the senate.

The measure repeals the Turner Act, under which the so-called poorer school districts of the state were allotted aid from a $2,000,000 fund annually so as to equalize rural and urban educational advantages. Four annual distributions of Turner Fund money have been made, Delta county having been allotted a total of about $400,000. Only 10 per cent of this year's allotment has been received thus far, the remainder to be sent out by the state treasurer as funds become available.

Although the Thatcher-Sias bill, if enacted into law, will provide sufficient revenues for the drastically reduced budget of the Escanaba public schools, it is not considered as entirely satisfactory to those who have fought for the equalization principle in educational financing for several years, and finally achieved the enactment of the Escanaba Plan into what became known as the Turner Act.

The present school aid bill provides for a supplementary primary school fund, amounting to about $11,700,000, to be distributed on the same basis as the present primary fund, and also an equalization fund of approximately $3,300,000 to bring up the revenue to amounted needed for a minimum educational program. The plan is similar to that proposed by the Michigan Education association, excepting that it originally called for a $25,000,000 fund and the provision that at least two mills local tax must levied, instead of three mills, as stipulated in the Thatcher-Sias bill, as passed by the house.

Those who advocate the equalization of educational opportunities to all school children in Michigan believe that the primary school fund plan of distribution is faulty, and that establishment of the supplementary fund simply perpetuates the defects of the first. Their demand has been that the fund obtained from the proposed sales tax should be used in its entirety for equalization purposes. Pressure from the metropolitan centers, who are favored under the old system, however, may make it impossible for advocates of equalization to accomplish their aims at this time. Fortunately, some semblance of the equalization principle is retained in the Thatcher-Sias bill, establishing a basis for future action in the furtherance of the aims of the Turner Act, which embodies the essential features of the original Escanaba Plan.

NOT PROPER TIME

THE Iron Mountain News, in discussing the various angles of the old age pension measure adopted by the house Friday, expresses the opinion that, in view of the tangled situation in governmental finances, this is no time to be considering this form of legislation.

Even though the old age pension bill, if enacted into law, will not take effect until 1935, the News believes it would be better to delay this venture until the fiscal outlook for the state and counties is more clearly defined.

Commenting on the old age pensions bill, the News states:

"It is proposed to close the county infirmaries and to put the aged indigents on their own. It is a presumption that they can take care of themselves for $25 a month at least as well as they are cared for in the infirmaries, and that their self respect, which they are presumed to lose in the infirmaries, will be restored. There is a considerable field of doubt here, and whether the desirable results the bill's sponsors promise would be obtained could only be known when the question was put to the test.

"But granting the soundness of the theory—and it has much support—and granting that the plan should be introduced at least as a matter of trial and error, it may be said that under the prevailing confusion as to public finance there should be no definite commitment to it at this time, even for a date as remote as 1935. For it is agreed that the old age pension would require more money than the present plan of providing for the aged indigents, and 75 per cent of this additional money would have to come from the counties.

"As matters stand, the counties are in no position to undertake any additional financial responsibilities. The 15 mill limitation has shackled them so effectively that there is hardly one of their number of 83 in the state that is this year able to budget a sufficient appropriation for poor and unemployment relief. To do the best they can by poor relief they have curtailed other appropriations to a point where it is difficult to see, the laws relating to county and township administration being what they are, how the minimum needs of public service can be met.

"These conditions being what they are—and none can deny them—it would appear the part of wisdom to defer action on old age pensions until the fiscal outlook for the state and counties has become more clearly defined. As matters stand, neither of them is able to increase commitments for any public service now being conducted in fairly efficient manner."

ESCANABA HAS IT

GRIPPED with an overwhelming booster spirit several years ago, this community adopted as a slogan, "Escanaba Has It."

This live-wire city, hub of the upper peninsula and soforth, boasted of its fine streets, stores, public buildings and other possessions.

One thing we missed, however. We forgot to proclaim the fact that Escanaba has the most attractive girls of any city anywhere. Traveling salesmen remarked about this fact, often; but we never seemed to think much about it. The chamber of commerce never mentioned our rich stock of feminine pulchritude in its tourist booklets; nor in any of its reports, listing the material and cultural assets of the community.

It took the Century of Progress to convince us that Escanaba has the most beautiful women. Miss Lillian Anderson of Racine, Wis., formerly of Escanaba, has been crowned Queen of the Fair from among fifty girls from all parts of the world.

Long live the queen!

THE HOUSE OF MORGAN AND THE PUBLIC

THE investigation into the affairs of J. P. Morgan & Co. is important, not so much because of sensational disclosures which may be made as because it provides the general public with a free look into what is, in the last analysis, the public's business.

Recognition of that simple fact is one of the most wholesome developments that have come out of the new deal at Washington.

The boundary lines between private business and public business are hazy and ill-defined at all times. By tradition, of course, what man chooses to do in his own office, in pursuit of his own designs, is strictly his own concern; but in practice it doesn't quite work out that way, and the more important the man is the more does the public have a right to inquire into the things that happen in his inner sanctum.

The conditions under which all of us live and work and play are determined partly by what our elected representatives do at Washington and partly by obscure economic forces which we do not wholly understand and which we have never yet had much luck in controlling; but a third factor, which in some ways is the most important of all, is the activity of a few men of great wealth and high position—like Mr. Morgan and his partners.

Under our present system, these men are responsible to no one. In the general run of cases there is no appeal from the decisions they make. Much of the time the ordinary citizen does not even know what their decisions are; sometimes, indeed, their connections with his place in society is so involved that he doesn't even realize that the decisions they have taken will affect him.

Nevertheless, the kind of job he is able to get, the amount of money he is able to make, the prices he will have to pay for what he buys, the amount of security he is able to have in his own niche—any or all of these things can be influenced profoundly by the things that such men do.

That is why it is so necessary that the public have full information about the things that go on in offices like those of Morgan & Co. In putting these kings of finance on the witness stand and scrutinizing their books the government is not stepping into a field which is properly close to it.

Democracy can be nothing more than a sham if some form of social control cannot be made effective over the men whose day-by-day decisions affect the lives of innumerable citizens.

WORDS AND WEEDS

Kind words are weeds,
Unless the seeds
Of kindly deeds

If you but say,
"Good friend, good day,"
And go your way,

But little you
Will ever do
To make it true.

A pleasant smile
Will help awhile—
But long the mile.

So be not known
For words alone,
Like buds unblown.

So great men's needs,
Words are but weeds,
Words without deeds.

DARLING FOOL

(By NEA Service) BY MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXXIII

Dan said grumpily, "Tell her I'm out."

The new maid stood in the doorway, irresolute, as Mrs. Cardigan murmured protestingly, "Dan, you simply must go! It's disgraceful."

Frowning, he arose and went to the telephone. "Hello! Yes. Oh, I've been terribly busy. I'm afraid—" There was a pause during which Dan grimaced at the table against which he was resting. Then he said, none too graciously, "Oh, all right. Around 7? Bye. Be seeing you."

After the servant was out of earshot Mrs. Cardigan, majestic in her morning draperies of trailing lavender, presiding with elegance over the silver coffee pot, began lightly to take her son to task. Underneath her bantering tones Dan detected real earnestness.

"Danny, it's really too bad of you. Sandra asked you to that big dinner last Wednesday and you refused. She'll begin to think you're a boor." She smiled at him, holding out her hand for his cup.

"No more, thanks." Dan reflected they were putting "the works" on him—his father, his mother, all of them. He was thoroughly out of temper and fed up with the whole business, he told himself. He'd half a mind to get out—go to South America—anywhere—on a cattle boat or a fruit boat. Sandra was all right. She was a swell girl if you liked the type. Dan was just out of tune with the universe, ever since he'd made that quick trip back from the west to find Monnie gone.

He'd sent a wire to her hotel in New York, having ascertained by telephoning to the News office where Miss Anstice Corey was to stay. But Monnie hadn't answered. Dan didn't understand it. That is, he didn't until Geraldine had dropped some of her nasty hints a few days later.

"I see your girl friend has gone abroad." Geraldine had crowed, waving the town paper at him.

Dan had growled, "Don't know what you're talking about." He had been furious. Geraldine had lifted her eyebrows, looking superior in that maddening way she had. Great mistake, sending that girl east to school!

"Oh, you don't?" she had drawled. "Monica O'Dare's gone to Europe. Don't ask me how or why. Guess maybe Charles Eustace could explain."

Dan had interrupted her, his eyes flashing, fists clenched. Even if she was his sister, by the Lord Harry, he'd make her eat her words. "What do you mean?" he had barked. Geraldine had been a bit frightened. Dan's temper was not to be roused unthinkingly.

"Nothing at all except that people are saying he wants to marry her," she had said hastily, "and that he's grooming her—seeing she has certain advantages before that happens."

"Rot!" Dan had not understood clearly the blind rage that flowed over him. Why, Monnie was promised to him! She had understood that. Then in a flash he remembered the letter he had written her from the ranch. What had he said? He couldn't quite remember. Something about having to change their plans. He had thought, of course, he would see her soon and explain to her that the precarious condition of his father's business and their dependence on Mr. Lawrence's good will made it necessary to "sit tight" for a while. Then to come back and find her gone—It was like a slap in the face. Dan told himself aggrievedly, forgetting utterly that it was he who had struck the first blow.

And now his mother was working on him, reminding him without saying so, straight out, that it was up to him to keep Sandra happy so Dad could ride along with the bank crowd, so that they wouldn't press him too hard just now.

"I'm going to the darn dinner," he observed sourly, "but don't ask me to like it."

His mother gave him her firm, toothy smile—her "clubwoman smile" Dan thought it.

"That's my grand big boy! When Mrs. Cardigan had her own way she could be nice. She ran them all, Dan's father and all of them, with an iron hand but she smiled determinedly the while. Dan felt balked, baffled. He had to stand by Dad—for the present at least. Anyhow nothing much mattered if what Geraldine hinted about Charles and Monnie were true. He felt the old dull rage rise in him like a tide and clenched his fists, remembering—

"What's the matter, son?"

Dan muttered something under his breath, choking down his toast. Yes, a fruit boat would be the thing, he was thinking. As soon as Dad's affairs were straight again he would clear out. Go away some place. They'd remember him, years after. "That Cardigan boy—lit out, didn't he? I hear he has a plantation in Santa something or other—"

Meanwhile there was Sandra's "little dinner" to attend.

* * *

She was especially nice to Dan that night. Sandra in her best mood, her gracious, interested, sisterly mood, was quite delightful. Even Dan had to admit it. She didn't demand compliments. She was casual, amusing. She sang a little French song—rather naughty, she said. The other guests, a brother and sister from Cincinnati, Helen and Tad Williston, applauded loudly while Dan pretended to understand. He felt inferior and admired Sandra for her cleverness. She was a darn smart girl, no two ways about it, and very effective with her dark hair banded demurely back. Sandra was wearing the quaintest of puffed and ruffled frocks in a new shade—hyacinth blue, she said, which gave a ssa-tinge to her long-lidded green eyes and made her fair skin look dazzling.

The Willistons insisted they couldn't stop over. Tad had a director's meeting in the morning, and Sandra drove them to the 11:20, with Dan in the rumble seat beside the Williston girl. She was a competent looking, rather mannish individual with coal black hair cut crisply away from a broad brow and big strong, delicate fingered hands Dan liked her.

Demanding a cigaret, she made a gesture toward the two in the front seat.

"Nice girl, Sandra," she said briefly. "Lots of fun."

Dan agreed, impressed in spite of himself by the Willistons and their dictum. Williston & Co. were "big people" in his father's line. He had been hearing of them since he was a child. He could not help being impressed with the fact that Helen Williston who had seen everything and been everywhere dubbed Sandra "nice" and "lots of fun."

"Can't see why she buries herself in this little town," muttered Dan's companion.

* * *

Dan had almost begun to defend Belvedere with the heat proper to a native son of the place when suddenly he remembered that he, too, was anxious to get away. He mumbled something, thinking that Miss Williston must think him a dull fellow.

On the ride home he was unusually silent. Sandra, seeming to sense his mood, talked in desultory snatches.

"Don't you want to come in and have a cigaret?" she asked as they approached the Lawrence place.

Dan roused himself. "Believe I will. Then I'll walk home. Need the exercise."

She ran the car into the big garage expertly, as she did everything, with a deft turn of the wheel. Dan helped her out, conscious of the fine, faint scent which always hovered about her beautifully groomed hair and skin. Sandra was—well—perfection, in her way.

She slipped her cool hand into the crook of his arm. Her voice was very soft. "Worried about something, Danny?"

It was nice to know someone cared. His mother now—his mother was too busy, too absorbed in her own plans, to care in the least what Dan's private feelings were. And Monnie—well, she didn't love him any more. That was finished. You closed the door on things like that.

"Bored," Dan admitted in a troubled voice. "Wish I could light out, go some place where things happen."

"Ah, don't I know that feeling!" Sandra was all sweet sympathy.

Suddenly the girl came very close. Cool, fragrant and golden, she stood looking at him, smiling.

"Can't you tell me all about it, Danny boy?" she asked.

The man hesitated. Almost before he knew what was happening Sandra was in his arms.

MONDAY'S PROGRAM

Richard Barthelmess zooms into town in his latest First National picture "Central Airport" Monday for a two day engagement. This thrilling air story is unusual in that it glories the commercial flyers of peace, rather than the birdmen of war, and it is said that "Central Airport" tops anything ever filmed in a picture of this nature in breath taking flying scenes, romantic love, and unusual story content.

One of the most fascinating love triangles is formed between Dick, who believes a flyer's place is in the sky, not in the home, his younger aviator brother Tom Brown, whose viewpoint is just the opposite, and the girl, Sally Eilers, who wants Dick's love but Tom's security.

HIGHWAY US-2 MAY BE PAVED

Federal Public Works Measure May Provide Needed Funds

All possible preliminary work on US-2, between Gladstone and Manistique, is being done now, so as to be in readiness in the event grading and paving projects are authorized under the $3,300,000,000 public works bill, now being considered by congress, it was stated yesterday by J. T. Sharpensteen, division highway engineer.

Giving a resume of the situation, Mr. Sharpensteen explained the stretch between Kipling and Days River has been surveyed, plans completed, but not all the the right of way has been purchased.

Several months ago, contracts were let to the Bacco Construction company for grading the three mile relocation between Days River and Rapid River, and that work is now in progress.

From Rapid River to Nahma Junction, the survey has been made, plans completed and the county road commission is going ahead with the purchase of right of way. Grading at Whitefish hill and some clearing is being done along this piece of the new route by the county under the R. F. C. work-relief program.

The preliminary survey of US-2, from Nahma Junction to the Schoolcraft county line at Cooks has been made, and the final survey will begin next Wednesday. The county will start soon also to acquire the necessary right of way.

Preliminary survey of the Cooks to Manistique stretch will also be started shortly.

Provisions of Bill

The public works bill, which was passed Friday by the house of representatives, provides that $2,000,000,000 will be advanced to states and local governments, 70 per cent in loans and 30 per cent in outright gifts. In addition, $440,000 is to be given the states for highway construction. The balance of about $900,000,000 is to be expended on federal projects, including $100,000,000 for naval construction, public buildings, rivers and harbors, flood control and conserving natural resources.

Paving of US-41 between Powers and Menominee, is also dependent upon passage by congress of the public works measure, since the state of Michigan has no funds available for carrying on such an extensive highway building program as is being proposed in various sections of the state.

R. F. C. Money Released

J. P. Cameron, chairman of the board of supervisors and unemployment relief director in Delta county, received word yesterday from the state welfare department that an additional $12,000 of R. F. C. money had been released, covering the period from May 19 to 31.

During the first half of May, 14,436 men were given employment on state trunk line highways in the upper peninsula. Of this number, 12,535 were engaged on R. F. C. work-relief projects.

Mr. Sharpensteen, Mr. Cameron, R. P. Mason and A. A. Lundgaard returned Friday night from a business trip to Lansing. A short distance out of St. Ignace, a light truck made an unexpected turn in the highway and was struck by the automobile. None of the occupants was injured, although some damage was done to the truck.

Washington.—The administration's securities bill may be regarded as an effort to lock the barn door in the wake of a stolen horse—but it certainly was a large horse.

The people have been "mulcted" of 50 billion dollars by the investment "profession" in the last 10 years, according to Chairman Fletcher of the Senate banking and currency committee.

Other estimates place the total for that period at a mere 25 billions, with the assertion that investment losses in this country were averaging some $1,700,000,000 a year even before the depression.

Reassuring Investors

The determination of the administration and Congress to give the investor a "new deal" is comparable to the willingness to accept a system of insuring bank deposits. By making it possible for investors to know the facts about securities and preventing fraud and misrepresentation, it is hoped to assure those who have money that they can invest with relative safety. Innumerable potential investors naturally enough are now somewhat timid.

Forty-seven states have blue-sky laws, but the investors lost their money just the same. Billions of dollars went for virtually worthless securities which were presented with incomplete, careless or false claims.

Now the idea is to have the claims subject to federal scrutiny and require that the investor be advised as to all pertinent facts regarding his purchase.

Opposition was bound to appear and did. Investment bankers undertook to recruit industrial executives to protest. Fletcher said the United States Chamber of Commerce asked its more important members, through local chambers, to object.

Woodin's Fame

Secretary of the Treasury Woodin is rapidly becoming famous. As he stood with other passengers to leave a parlor car from New York the other day, a strange woman just behind him made him an excited speech about her admiration for his good work in Washington. Woodin beamed.

"I've voted Democratic all my life," the woman concluded proudly.

"Well, I haven't," said Woodin.

Not at all dismayed, the lady turned to the people in the rear and announced: "That's our secretary of state!"

Byrd Now Wet

Senator Harry Flood Byrd, former governor of Virginia, is the latest die-hard dry to be washed away from his old moorings by the tide.

"When Virginia has its referendum on ratifying the eighteenth amendment I expect to vote for repeal," he says. "All of us must recognize that no law is stronger than the public sentiment to sustain it. I hope that such plans as may be adopted by the various states will promote the cause of true temperance."

Danish Church and Army in Quarrel

Copenhagen (AP)—A quarrel between the Danish church and the army is developing over bells.

All the Lutheran bishops have endorsed a statement issued by 113 members of the clergy banning the use of church bells to signal mobilization of the army.

Some high army officers now are threatening a military boycott of the state church.

Movie Stunt Men Figure Out Way To Beat Pay Cut

BY HUBBARD KEAVY

Hollywood—The movie stunt men—"lucky devils," one picture called them—are protesting the salary cuts.

The headliners in this crazy profession, a dozen or so young fellows who have trained themselves to "take the bumps," have unionized unofficially to keep their rather meager salaries from being cut in halves.

Their argument, according to one of them, is: Aren't our lives worth just as much today as they were yesterday? "And then what happens," I asked.

"Nothing," said the young man, one of those without whom pictures could not be made. (There must be falls, car and plane crashes, fights and other thrills in almost every movie.)

"The casting directors tell us that everyone else is taking a cut. You can't make even an impression when you remind them that the hospitals aren't discounting their bills 50 per cent."

No, said the academy officially. "As the salary waiver arrangement was intended to apply to all employes receiving more than $50 a week, the committee recognizes no exceptions," said its finding.

Stunt men are astute. They have to be to avoid serious injuries when they plunge cars over cliffs, or dive from high places into shallow pools or perform any of the other death defying tasks scenario writers invent. With the same craftiness with which they figure out ways to fall without being hurt, these stunt men have found a way to beat the depression.

They're asking $200 for a $100 job. And $300 for a stunt worth, in their estimation, only half that amount.

"Sure! we'll take a cut," said my informant. "Why not?"

GILBERT TELLS ABOUT GENEVA

Like U. S. Politicians, Statesmen Have Hotel Room Parleys

BY MORRIS GILBERT
(NEA Service European Correspondent)

Geneva.—(Special Cable)—While frock-coated statesmen from 60 nations make weighty speeches in the dignified deliberations of the Disarmament Conference now in session here, the real fate of the future peace of the world is being charted in the wholly informal discussions of a half dozen men, gathered around a table in a smoke-filled hotel room at midnight.

Morris Gilbert

These half dozen men are the spokesmen of the dominant powers, and they meet unofficially and without ceremony. They talk. Pretty soon orders go out to "the boys."

Next day, on the floor of the conference, the big issues are handled smoothly—as they were planned in the hotel room conference the night before. And if the hotel gatherings result in no definite decisions, it will be reflected in the disagreements of the delegates whose formal statements are cabled around the world.

In this respect, the Disarmament Conference is like a political convention in any American city. Geneva might be Chicago, and the fact that the smoke-filled hotel room isn't an American monopoly, but international, makes matters much easier for pipe-smoking Norman Davis, the American representative who is a leader in the hotel-room sessions.

Davis Feels at Home

Davis, astute Tennesseean, whose task is to put President Roosevelt's important new peace policies before the world, is very much at home in this atmosphere. He has all the qualifications of the best type of American politician—quiet courtesy, reasonableness, and a level head for facts.

Add to these patience and persistence, and you get the combination that makes Davis an outstanding figure on this grim battlefield of international rivalries.

Geneva goes to bed early, but late hours are kept on the broad boulevard along the lake, where the delegations are living. Limousines with the flags of any one of a dozen nations snapping on the radiators purr past at almost any hour of the night. They are carrying worried diplomats back and forth from mysterious meetings.

Communication among the chief delegations is easy. The British are at the Hotel Beau Rivage, the Germans at the Carlton Park. The Japanese live at the Hotel Metropole. The Russians are stopping at the Pension Anglais, which translated means "Dwelling of the English." The three other important delegations—those of the United States, France and Italy—are quartered at the Hotel des Bergues.

How the Show Is Run

The rest of the delegations do not count for much. The Afghan delegate is prominent on the floor of the conference because the name of his country begins with the first letter of the alphabet. But Sir John Simon, leading delegate of the British Empire, makes his decisions for him.

Some of the Balkan delegations look pretty big on the floor, but Joseph Paul-Boncour of France—another lawyer with a white mane like Speaker Rainey of the American House of Representatives—swings the Little Entente.

Add to these Pompeo Alosi of Italy and Rudolph Nadolny of Germany, and maybe Dr. Edward Benese of Czecho-Slovakia, and you have the roster of the men who are really running the conference and who will come to grips in Geneva's smoke-filled hotel rooms some night soon.

And as the world peace drama rolls toward this climax with the United States in the forefront, the nations with their conflicting ambitions, fears and hatreds are perhaps nearer to reconciling their differences than ever before. Action seems closer at hand.

Open to the Public

The formal conference itself looks something like this—

Sixty patriots from 60 countries. Four or five expert and patriotic advisers for each. A permanent staff of statisticians, secretaries, librarians, translators and messengers. Two hundred reporters from all over the world. A sprinkling of tourists.

The conference meets in a modern building made mostly of windows—the disarmament factory. Its unadorned auditorium seats a thousand. Its whole lake side wall is of glass, and the press and public in the balcony at the rear can see Mount Blanc and snow-covered mountains beyond.

There is a big lobby for delegates and the press behind the auditorium, and an efficient press room behind that. To carry the picture further, there's an old ladies' home across the street, and small boys are fishing in the lake.

To the right Geneva dozes in summer heat while its principal industry—world peace—is doing business.

Senior Play at St. Joseph's on Thursday, June 1

The senior class play, "Crooks for a Month," by George F. Mountford, will be presented Thursday evening, June 1, in St. Joseph's audtiorium at 8 o'clock.

Members of the cast have been rehearsing regularly and have become thoroughly acquainted with their roles.

The play is a fast-moving comedy in three acts and is excellent entertainment. Its story is as follows:

Winfield Bentwood, finding himself broke and the paternal purse closed against him, takes counsel with two impecunious college chums. Jack, the master mind of the trio, points the way to easy money. "Why toil for a pittance," he asks, "when for one-third of the labor you may earn three times as much, gouging a credulous citizenry that likes to be gouged?" So they open the "Temple of the Occult," presided over by the famous Hindu mystic, "the great Ramjah" (Jack), and here they spend their leisure hours in Hindu disguise, hoaxing the public magnificently and raking in the shekels. All goes well until their respective lady loves visit the "temple" to have their fortunes told. Then a ludicrous blunder of Winfield's betrays the identity of the fraudulent trio and the girls are furious. On top of this calamity, Winfield's father raids the place, searching for his daughter, and promptly falls victim to the wiles of the great Ramjah, who gives him some shrewd advice about his business. Later, this good turn is instrumental in saving the trio from unpleasant complications, when the police raid the "temple" in earnest.

The program will be under the direction of Zania Rivers. If any group wishes to form its own team, a report of the names of the team members must be made at this time and arrangements will be made to fit the team into the league schedule.

Life in Forest Camp Described by Reporter

By Marjorie H. Morrill

Newberry, Mich., May 27. (Special)—There are 400 city boys in camps on the plains in Chippewa county. Three weeks ago they were set down one rainy day and told that here was "home" for the next six months. They knew nothing about the woods, most of them. Many of them had never worked in all of their short lives, having been too young when the depression struck to have yet taken on the job of wage earning. Those who had worked had known factories, shops, and offices. Some had been on short rations for so long that the state of hunger was normal to them.

If the weather was tough the army and the federal foresters were kind. They had been told that they were to plant trees but they found their hands doing lots of other things, so that now the two camps, Camp Strong and Camp Raco, have taken on a look of stability and snug efficiency as though they meant to stay there in the jack pines for a long time.

"Company Street" is nice to look at. The two long rows of army tents face each other, the walks are bordered and the tents held with white-washed stones and pegs in true army manner. At Camp Raco the Flag is flying. At Camp Strongs they say the Raco bunch got there first and captured the only spare flag at Camp Brady. Strongs wants a flag, too.

Good Men

"Good men," said federal forester Brandner, resident man in charge of the work at the two camps. "Much better than we had had expected. Of course they are soft yet, and we don't seem to be able to get them quite filled up. But by the middle of summer you come back and see what they have done. We'll have something worth writing about!"

The forester then went on to outline the work laid out for the summer weather. First comes planting, then building fire lines, thinning growing timber, cutting out dead and diseased wood,—sanitary cut, they call it—burning slash and brush, road and trail making, painting, carpentering, drainage, surveying, study of blister rust and other infections, blue print and drafting,—all this and dozens of other jobs for busy hands. Of the thousands of acres comprising the Federal Forest there is enough work planned to keep the four hundred busy for ten years, or if the two year intensive program is followed five times as many men will be needed as are now in camp.

Discipline Easy

Little discipline appears necessary for the boys. At Camp Raco they have a "bed check" and everyone must be in at ten. At Camp Strongs they do not even do this. During the first trying weeks, when the cooking was just getting under way, the famous or infamous Sibley stoves refused to do anything but smoke or go out, rain fell during the day and water froze in the tents at night, some of the boys thought longingly of the warm rooms in Detroit. Others had not stayed in one place very long; they could see no reason for staying stuck up there on the sand plains. So fourteen of them left "No worse than the army," said Lieut. McKeown of Raco, "and when you remember what these chaps have been through, not to be woundered at." At Camp Strongs four boys took Dutch Leave. Of these two wanted to return. One had said that he had a job in Detroit but when he had hiten-hiked there he found the job gone. The mother of another wrote and said that the boy was sorry he had left and wanted to return. Neither can be taken back. The officers report that they believe that these boys are removed from welfare lists as soon as they are inducted into the C. C. C. and their families cannot be reinstated if the boys leave. However, Captain Fox of Camp Strongs reports that a boy can be released if he brings notice from an employer that he has found work. For the most part, officials report, the boys are happy, contented, and willing to do a good days work.

A Much Needed Work

"This is much more than a stop-gap to lift us out of a depression," is the opinion of many who have visited the camps. And so it appears to the visitor. These two camps and others like them throughout the upper peninsula will make themselves felt for all of the rest of the history of the district and will pour thousands of dollars into the localities which they serve. Plans of the conservations department, both federal and state, which have been only dreams or on paper will be worked out quickly, and in a manner little dreamed of a few short months ago.

Brandner is happy over the work the boys can do. "Much, much better than we had any reason to hope," he put it. "Lands worthless for anything else but growing trees and sheltering game, will be properly used and will in time bring a steady income. As tourist attractions, as a resort place for the city people, as water shed and flood control, as well as acting as a training school for the young fellows who work them, the Roosevelt depression camps will do an unmeasurable service to the country," the forester stated.

Of course the boys have a lot to learn. To one who had worked seven years picking up a bolt with his right hand, feeding it through a machine, then placing it on a conveyer, all of this diversified work is strange. One of the boys has a broken nose because he did not know how to evade the kick of a cut sapling. "We send them out with the foresters each morning with our blessing. So far they have all returned in one piece," Captain Fox at Strongs reported.

Yes, it is more than a summer camp for city boys, as one critic called it. The boys, some of them, had that idea for a time. They were given a slogan "A whole lot of fun and a little bit of work," measuring off the two distances with their two hands. But after a day in the woods, or on the fire lines, with axes and shovels and dibblers they change it; "A whole lot of work and a little bit of fun" This is their "high sign." So if you should see a bunch of young fellows with freshly tanned faces, dressed in blue overalls and tan shirts, and measuring long and short you will know that you have come across a bunch of the C. C. C. from Camp Strongs or Camp Raco.

INCREASE IN PREDATORY ANIMALS

Opinions differ in this locality among woodsmen as to the value of the federal trapper system as is now operating in connection with the wolf and coyote problem, but practically all in a position to know state that the animals are increasing and have been for the past five or six years at least. Few if any wish to return to a county bounty system but many believe that an interstate agreement should be arrived at through which a system of marking hides, scalps or skulls would make it impossible for more than one bounty to be collected by the trapper.

Luce county and the eastern end of the peninsula have plenty of the animals, woodsmen and wardens report. A short time ago the report came in by telephone that eight dead deer had been found pulled down by these animals in the Cusino Game refuge. Federal trappers under the direction of H. P. Williams, who is in charge of predatory animal control for the peninsula went into the refuge. According to all that can be learned they did not visit all of the reported kills but found evidence that the wolves had been working among the winter herds there. Williams, conceded to be an effective trapper, has now only ten men on his force, much too small a number to do effective work in such a large territory and one in which the traveling is so difficult.

A short time ago five wolves put Clifford Coon, Newberry man, up a tree near the Dillingham Camps in the Two Heart region. The animals showed no disposition to leave until Coon called to other members of his party. A day or so after the experience wardens and woodsmen visited the locality and found two well defined wolf play-grounds with large balls of the shed hair. Another woodsman and former trapper reports that he knows of more than a dozen animals, some of them known to be killers, in the Tahquamenon district. Trapper White, located north of McMillan has an excellent record for taking both wolves and coyotes but his district is too large for one man to cover and there is no attempt being made to keep the animals in the Tahquamenon district under control.

The Canadian Wolf

Experts state that wolves in various parts of the country differ radically as to size and color. As a rule the wolves of the northern countries are lighter in color than those farther south. They state that only continuous effort will keep wolves down in the Upper Peninsula as the animals cross the ice each winter and come in from Canada as they are chased out of their native feeding grounds by trappers and hunters and find that they are little molested in the Michigan territory. To prove this they state that the lobo or light-colored wolf is often found here when the native wolves are a much darker grey.

Art Moshimer, former federal trapper, was laid off last fall. He has an excellent record, having taken 17 wolves in as many months. He reports that he knows of more than a dozen of the animals are working in the river district. Some he knows because of the size of the foot, two because he has had them in traps and they are cripples, others because of peculiarities of gait or extreme length of stride. He also knows of at least two families of cubs. Although Mr. Moshimer is not on the pay rolls he plans to put out a string of traps this week in the interests of conservation.

Turnbull Favors Bounty

Sheriff John T. Turnbull favors some form of a bounty system to keep the wolves in check. He is an experienced woodsman and in his hunts for lost men nearly every deer season has heard wolves howling in the country north of the Tahquamenon. "It is not a pleasant sound," he says. While there was little doubt that there was a "bounty racket" at one time effective throughout Canada, the Upper Peninsula and other states, the sheriff is of the opinion that it could be effectively controlled through a system of checks or other means. "As the matter now stands the trappers get their salaries even if they never take a wolf. Even a small bounty would make it worth while to set out a string of traps when shackers or farmers know a wolf is about. Coyotes appear to be decidedly on the increase. The shacker lives off the country anyway and is the worse enemy conservation has to contend with. The chance to earn a few dollars for a wolf or coyote would at least give the state some return for keeping him."

George Craft, Newberry carpenter, is spending the year in his cabin on the Deer Park road. He reports seeing a large timber wolf on the main highway and reports that another Newberry man saw one near the same place the night before he sighted his animal. He also reports that he hears coyotes nearly every night. They can generally be heard barking around East Lake a few miles to the west of Newberry.

Either a stronger federal control, or a state bounty appears to be the desire of many here; no one was heard to speak a word for a county bounty. But all are agreed that in the interests of wild life a better system, or more effective than at present can be found.

Native Churches Held Major Goal In Mission Work

New York (AP)—A good missionary is one who is willing to work himself out of a job.

This conclusion is reached by the committee on selection of missionaries, composed of members of a number of of the major denominational mission boards.

Although it worked independently of the laymen's foreign missions inquiry in studying qualifications for church service in foreign fields, it agrees with the inquiry's finding that one of the main items on the mission program should be the establishing of indigenous, or native, churches.

Such churches would be no more dependent on financial and personnel support from America than American churches are dependent on Asia for money or leadership.

It is becoming harder and harder to qualify for missionary work, the committee asserts.

Among the characteristics it sets up as standards for the acceptance of missionaries are: physical health, good temper, deep spiritual life, effective prayer life, intellectual honesty, working knowledge of the Bible and a broad recognition of Christianity's message to all problems of life and the social order.

Fredric March and Cary Grant play the two leading roles in "The Eagle and The Hawk," the story of two wartime flyers whose hatred for each other made them both heroes, which comes to the Rialto Theatre today only. Jack Oakie and Carole Lombard head the supporting cast.

March a skilled, reckless flyer, Grant a ruthless killer. Together in the air, they are an unbeatable team, and one enemy plane after the other is outmaneuvered by March's beautiful handling of his plane; brought down by Grant's deadly handling of his guns.

But on the ground, March and Grant are the deadliest of enemies. March is disgusted by Grant's cold delight in killing. Grant is scornful of March's scruples. The spectacle of death after death begins working on March's imagination; gradually he begins to crack. And Grant, the first to suspect the fact, begins to feel sympathy for his pilot.

Must Revise Plans For Relief Work

Newberry, May 27 — A reorganization of relief work in Luce county is being contemplated by R. F. C. officials and W. J. Truran. This will mean that while the new set-up is being made that relief work will be discontinued. Walter M. Barry, field worker for the R. F. C. has made several visits to the county and conferred with P. H. Hamilton, chairman of the board of supervisors and with S. C. Sleeper, county highway engineer as well as Mr. Truran and the need of a complete reorganization of the work has been found necessary. Mr. Truran reported that he believed the Luce county system of giving relief was perhaps the most disorganized of any in the state."

A new set of blanks, forms and records are now being printed. Reregistration of all those receiving help, and a complete survey of the county will be made, Mr. Truran reports. This will mean a lot of work for the time being but will make the work much more simple after it has been set up and will also mean that the exact status of each family will be on record. Too much money has been spent here, R. F. C. officials believe. The money is supposed to be used more in the nature of relief than to create jobs and a complete turn-about in this regard will mean that much stricter methods will be used. The work on the new organization will start June 1.

ROADSIDE SPRING

The cobble stone spring west of Newberry on M-28 has been landscaped and otherwise beautified and gives promise to be one of the unusually lovely spots of the locality. County Engineer S. C. Sleeper in cooperation with state officials has taken one acre of land to the south of the spring, cleared it, seeded and planted it and made two large flower beds. The back ground is of second growth aspin but will become more slightly with growth. Evergreens and birch are planted. The ditch for the highway, which also receives the over-flow from the well, has been paved with stones and the slopes of the ditch have been seeded and sodded. A pretty rustic bridge crosses the ditch and limestone flags make the steps to the top of the bank. Picnic tables and benches and a pair of stoves have made it into an inviting place for a road side lunch.

Nearby is the beaver pond on which animals are still working. This is at the base of an old saw dust pile and is far from sightly although nature is doing well with rapid growth to hide the ugly stuff. It would not be much of an expense to clean up some of the old timbers left from the McTiver mill which once was located here. At any rate the highway department is to be complimented upon their work.

NEWBERRY LOCALS

Mr. Barclay of the music department in the Sault Ste. Marie schools and Mrs. Fred B. Newton gave a piano and violin concert before the high school assembly on Friday afternoon. Both are finished musicians and gave an excellent if brief program which was much enjoyed.

"Buy a poppy!" was heard on the village streets on Saturday as a bevy of pretty girls sold the scarlet blooms for the disabled soldiers. Mrs. Walter Johnson was in charge of the annual sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cormony and family from Accosta, Mich., are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Carmony. Miss Nina, who has been with her brother for a time, returned with them.

Miss Mirium Ojala, sister of Miss Esther Ojala, arrived from Detroit on Saturday for a few days visit here before going to her home in Hancock for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Stilgenbauer of Shepherd are the parents of a son, Nolan Doufas. Mrs. Stilgenbauer is the former Shirley Norton of Newberry.

MEMORIAL DAY

Memorial Day will again be observed in Newberry, L. E. Redmond being in charge of the committee of the American Legion putting on the program. The Legion will meet at the community building from which the parade will start for the cemetery. It will be led by the band and will start at 9:30. At the cemetery the program will be as follows:

Star Spangled Banner—Band.

Taps.

A service will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church following the grave cemetery and Legion members are invited to attend. This service will be held at 11 o'clock.

GAMES THIS WEEK

Monday—

Fords vs. Lauermans, Eastside.

Sinclairs vs. Cleaners, Westside.

Wednesday—

Barkers vs. Nortons, Eastside.

Fords vs. Cleaners, Westside.

Thursday—

Sinclairs vs. Barkers, Eastside.

Lauermans vs. Nortons, Westside.

The Fords got away to a flying start in the opening week's play in the Manistique diamond ball league by capturing two games. Creighton's team being the only league entry to come through the week with a perfect percentage. Four teams are tied for second place with a five hundred percentage, each having won one and lost one. Lauermans had the most disastrous week, being the only team in the circuit to drop both games.

Hitters enjoyed a big holiday with pitching far below par. Most of the teams went on scoring rampages in at least one of the two games with the Fords and Cleaners showing the heaviest attacks. Nels Halsey was easily the pitching star of the week, hurling fine games against the Oils and Barkers. All other pitchers had at least one poor game in their systems.

With players rapidly rounding into condition local fans are scheduled to witness a fine brand of ball and some hard fought contests are expected to be played this week. Games scheduled for Tuesday, Memorial Day, will be played on Wednesday evening.

Brown Dimension Company Working On Large Order

Fifty-five men are now being employed at the Brown Dimension company following the receipt of an order for the wood parts which will go into the manufacture of 25,000 army cots. The order must be completed by the latter part of June and it may be necessary to operate a night shift, according to R. L. Prine, manager. About 400,000 feet of lumber will be used in the manufacture of the parts. Mr. Prine states that no men need apply for work at the mill as the company is employing those who have worked at the mill in the past.

The army cots are being ordered by the federal government for use in the reforestation camps which are being established throughout the country.

To the Boats, Men!

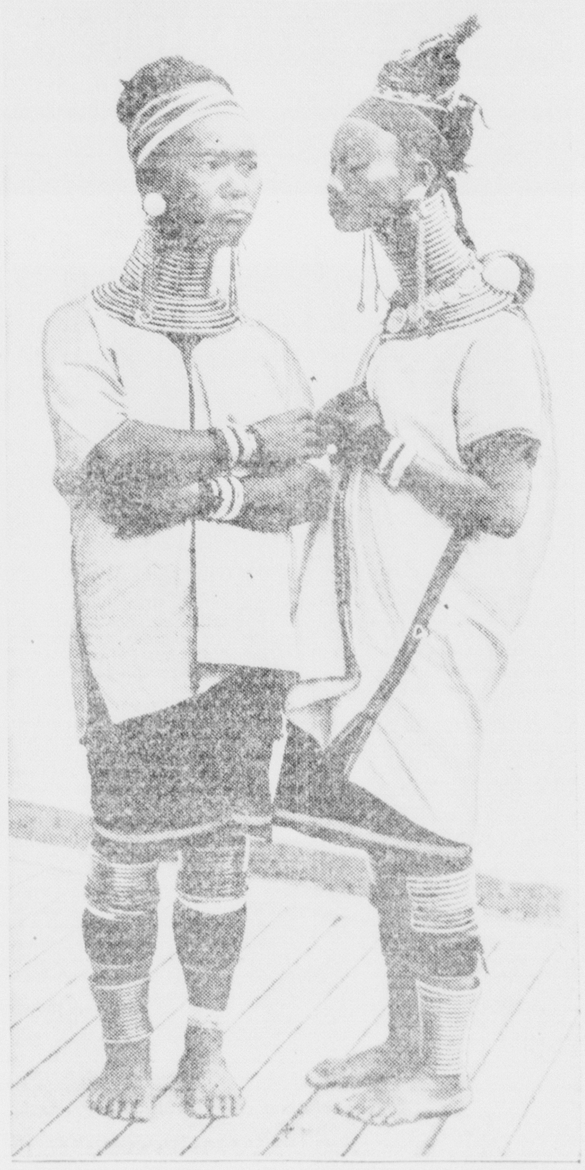
NECKST TO GIRAFFES!



They're not high-hatting us. It's those copper rings around the necks that give these belles from Upper Burma that disdainful look. It seems it's an old Burmese custom that gives them that giraffe appearance. Copper rings they have worn since infancy have stretched their necks. Weighted down with about 60 pounds of copper each, these circus-bound Burmese hardly had to crane their necks when they gazed at New York's skyline.

School Board Will Adopt New Methods In Insurance Policy

The Manistique board of education at its regular meeting Friday evening, delved into the matters of insurance adjustments and costs and decided upon a policy which will equalize annual insurance premiums. The board also is considering a blanket policy for the four brick school buildings, the high and junior high schools, Lakeside, Riverside, and Lincoln schools which will make for more simplifications.

In accordance with the blanket policy the board will ask for bids on the appraisal of the buildings and may adopt a policy of re-appraisal every five years.

In order to eliminate heavy premium loads which now occur in some years with relatively small premium payments in others, the board believed it to be advantageous to equalize the payments as far as possible in order that premium payments would be substantially the same from year to year. With the policies now in force, it will take until 1937 before the equalization can be thoroughly effected.

Reduction of the rental of the high school auditorium to city organizations to $15.00 plus janitor fees was approved by the board. The former rental charge for rehearsals, will remain the same. Organizations outside of the city will still be charged the regular $25.00 rental.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, May 27 (AP)—Another wild scramble to convert dollars into stocks and commodities piled up the largest volume of trading ever experienced with rising prices in a Saturday session in the New York stock exchange today.

CLAUDE A JAGGER

Inflation fevers ran high, in response to the government's plan to abrogate the gold clause in private and public obligations, and trading in the Chicago grain pit was almost as excited as the dealings in the New York stock exchange. While scores of stocks rose $1 to as much as $10, wheat made extreme advances of 3 cents a bushel.

Silver futures jumped a cent an ounce, cotton about $1 a bale, rubber futures about ½ cent a pound, copper ¼ of a cent a pound, hide futures ¼ to ½ cent and raw silk 9 to 10 cents a pound.

Commodities Up

Both stocks and average prices of sensitive raw commodities were back close to the levels of a year and a half ago, indicating that much had been done to overcome the deflationary effects upon our prices of England's abandonment of the gold standard in September, 1931, and the train of consequences which followed, coming to a climax in the banking crisis.

While the abrogation of clauses in government and corporate bonds which made interest and principal payable in gold have not in fact been operative since President Roosevelt took control of the currency on March 6, the announcement of the taking of legal steps definitely to cancel these provisions fired speculative enthusiasms and inflationary hopes and fears as nothing had since the United States formally declared itself off the gold standard six weeks ago.

The turnover in the stock exchange during the two hours of trading exceeded 4,300,000 shares, the largest ever for a Saturday session in stock exchange history. The biggest two-hour session's turnover was on that Saturday in May, 1930, when fears took hold that the crash late in 1929 had signalized the start of a serious depression, and stocks were dumped feverishly, piling up a turnover of more than 4,800,000 shares.

News Encouraging

Week-end trade news was largely encouraging, but was overshadowed by the inflationary fervor. The weekly report of the movement of freight showed an unimportant gain of only 523 cars over the previous week, but the total was 15,950 cars, or more than 3 percent over the like week of last year, the first time any week has topped a comparable week of a year earlier by such a margin since the depression set in. The freight movement was dwindling sharply at this time last year. A moderate decline in automobile production from the previous week was estimated by Cram.

On the whole, however, signs of the usual summer slump ordinarily visible at this time were lacking, led to high hopes that the administration's credit, monetary, farm and industrial programs would keep business on the mend during the period of the normal midyear lull. Some conservative quarters in Wall Street were again inclined to warn, however, that improvement in share prices may be outstripping business improvement now in sight.

ORDERS SWAMP CURB TRADERS

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, May 27 (AP)—Curb prices bounded sharply forward today. Traders were swamped with orders to the extent that trading facilities were severely taxed at times. Transfers approximated 597,000 shares, the largest Saturday turnover in some time. Sales last Saturday amounted to only 235,000 shares.

Specialties and mining stocks were in persistent demand. Issues up around 2 to 5 points in these groups included Aluminum Co., Dow Chemical, Newmont, Lake Shore Mines, A. O. Smith, J. P. Ryerson and Tubize Chatillon "A." Bunker Hill & Sullivan had an extreme rise of 9 which was about halved.

Utilities moved narrowly in the main. Electric Bond and Share had a fractional rise while American Gas closed unchanged. Commonwealth Edison was up 3. Several preferred stocks of power and light holding companies had fair gains. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, an inactive rail, rose 4½.

Oils strengthened, Standard of Indiana advancing 1½ while Humble rose nearly 3. Investment trust issues reflected improvement in their portfolio positions. Atlas Corp. was up a point. Blue Ridge jumped nearly as much.

x—New 1933 high.

BY VICTOR EUBANK
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, May 27 (AP)—Sharp advances in secondary issues was the feature of an active bond market today and gains of 1 to 6 or more points were scattered over a wide front.

Sales totaled $9,916,000, par value, compared with $6,256,000 last Saturday. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans gained half a point and reached another new high for the year at 75.7, or close to the peak of last September.

Some United States government securities eased a trifle, but others were fractionally higher. The highest grade corporation maturities were also not unduly enthusiastic, but losess here usually were small.

Heaviest commitments of the day were made in rail liens. Among the most active gainers in this list were some loans of Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corp., St. Paul, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, International Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Frisco, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

The better utilities and industrials included bonds of American & Foreign Power, American Ice, American Metals, Goodrich, International Telephone, McKesson, Paramount Publix, Pure Oil, Shell Union Oil, Utilities Power & Light and Vanadium.

In the foreign section gains of 1 to 2 or more points were registered by some loans of Australia, Brazil, Japan and Switzerland. The Germans were irregular and British 5½s were slightly lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, May 27—Excited buying on a big scale shot wheat prices 4 cents skyward today as a result of presidential proposals to change the gold standard law. Despite immense selling to realize profits, most of the wheat rise was held when the day ended. By far the majority of traders construed the proposed altering of the gold standard act as outright inflation.

Aided by reports that European importing countries had grabbed all available offerings of wheat on this side of the Atlantic, wheat closed buoyant 2¾ to 3¾ cents above yesterday's finish, with corn 1 to 1 3-8 up, oats 1-8 to 5-8 advanced, and provisions showing a jump of 15 to 27 cents.

Corn and oats were governed mainly by wheat action, but enthusiasm of corn buyers was lessened owing to improved weather for planting.

Providers rose with cereals, and showed unusual broad activity.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—July, 72 3-8 to ½, 76 3-4 to 7-8; September, 73 7-8 to 74, 77 7-8 to 78; December, 74½ to 5-8, 80½ to 3-8. Corn—July, 45½ to 5-8, 48 7-8 to ½; September, 47 5-8 to 3-4, 50 3-8 to ½; December, 50 to 50 1-8, 52 3-4 to 7-8.

Bandit Door Installed

Hermansville—If bandits ever again attempt a holdup at the First National bank in Hermansville they will find the job much more difficult than was the experience of the four who looted the bank of a little less than $5,000 in a daylight robbery a year ago this month.

Incidentally, the four were later captured and are now serving prison sentences.

To increase not only personal safety, but protection of valuables as well, the bank has installed a bandit barrier door opening into the lobby. The door is the first of its kind in this section of the state.

Yankees Run Up 12 in 8th, Beat Chicago

New York, May 27 (AP)—The New York Yankees, badgered by heavy hitting and with their hold on first place threatened, turned on the attacking Chicago White Sox in the eighth inning, piled up twelve runs in the season's biggest inning and won the second game of their series 15 to 11.

Going into the eighth, the Yanks were trailing 11-3, apparently badly beaten and with Lou Gehrig's ninth home run of the season as about their only consolation. Then they cut loose as Ted Lyons ran into a streak of wildness, drove Lyons and Walter Miller and finished their attack against Edie Durham when Bill Dickey smashed a homer with the bases full and the score tied.

The rally fell only two runs short of the modern major league record for one inning, 14 runs made by the Yanks against Washington in 1920 and equalled by the Chicago Cubs in 1922.

The Yanks sent 15 men to the plate in the big frame, collected eight hits, including Dickey's homer and a double by Lou Gehrig and drew four passes, one intentional.

The Pale Hose did most of their hitting in the seventh and eighth frames, driving Don Brennan to cover in the seventh and scoring seven runs in the two innings. Mule Haas set the pace for their 19-hit attack with two triples and two singles. Al Simmons and Lew Fonseca clouted home runs. Simmons' blow knocked Brennan out of the box and brought his consecutive hitting streak to 17 games.

Ferrell Shuts Out Boston Sox, 6 to 0

Boston, May 27, (AP)—Wes Ferrell, Cleveland pitching ace, shutout the Boston Red Sox today 6-0, and, for good measure, drove in two of the runs himself. Boston outhit Cleveland nine to seven, but couldn't seem to translate bingles into runs.

Ferrell's victory was his fourth this year while it was the third time the Indians have taken Lloyd Brown's measure. Brown, recently traded to the Sox, lost twice to Cleveland earlier in the season while hurling for the St. Louis Browns.

Today's win gave Cleveland a two to one advantage over Boston in their current series which will be concluded with a doubleheader tomorrow.

JACK PUTS ON GLOVES AGAIN

Dempsey Goes Round With Schmeling at Training Camp

BY GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Lake Swannanga, N. J., May 27 (AP)—Deep in the woods here, Jack Dempsey, the old "Manassa Mauler," tied on the gloves again this afternoon and fought a bristling exhibition round with Max Schmeling.

Some three thousand spectators packed into the little pine saucer to watch the old champion throw punches with the powerful young German, who meets Max Baer in a 15 round bout June 8 at Yankee stadium.

For three full minutes the pair, encased in headgears and wearing bulky mittens, battered and slugged each other about the ring while the crowd yelled itself hoarse and a half dozen movie cameras preserved the scene for posterity.

Didn't "Pull" Punches

Dempsey, getting around surprisingly well for his years of inactivity and the fact he packed an inner tube of pure fat about his waistline, gave the crowd a thrill by piling into his young superbly conditioned opponent from the start and never slackening his pace until his bellows collapsed about a minute from the end.

Even in a publicity bout, where he was pitted against the man who is to fight for him two weeks hence, the old mauler didn't seem to know how to "pull" his punches.

He tossed that murderous left of his into Schmeling's body a half dozen times and his right whistled when he launched it at the German's head and Schmeling fought back.

He met Jack's rushes with stinging blows to the face, and at close quarters ripped both hands to Dempsey's middle. It was a better fight than anybody expected to see. If either had an edge it was the younger man, but he gained his margin after Dempsey tired.

"I wanted to see if he could take it," puffed Jack after the round had ended.

"I hung a right on his jaw with everything I had behind it and he only grinned and threw a left into me that hurt clear to my heels."

Wolverines Beat Chicago Nine, 4-0

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 27, (AP)—The Michigan baseball team closed the home season today with a 4 to 0 victory over the University of Chicago nine here. Whitey Wistert allowed the Maroons only five hits, and fanned nine batters.

Michigan bunched its hits off Steve Straske, Chicago hurler, in the second and seventh frames to score all its runs. Ted Petoskey opened the second inning with a three bagger on the first pitched ball. He scored on Captain Mike Duffey's single to center.

Senators Defeat St. Louis Browns

Washington, May 27, (AP)—In a game cut short by rain in the seventh inning, the Washington Senators today defeated the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 2, to strengthen their second place position in the league standing.

The Nationals captured the ball game in the first inning, blasting Georgs Blaeholder from the hill with a five hit attack that netted four runs.

Earl Whitehill limited the Browns to four hits, but he also issued four passes, one of which counted in the run column.

TROJANS TAKE I. C. 4-A CROWN

Win Surprising Victory, Bath Places Third in Hurdles

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Harvard Stadium, Cambridge, Mass., May 27 (AP)—Leaving the meet's two record-breaking exploits to others and conceding the individual spotlight to Princeton's marvelous Bill Bonthron, double winner in the classic 800 and 1500 meter runs, Southern California's Trojans romped off with the inter-collegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championship today, for the fourth straight year, in smooth, workmanlike fashion.

The Trojans, tutored by the veteran Dean Cromwell, captured only one first place, but they scored in 10 of the 15 events, piled up 45 points and gained a much-desired triumph over their arch-rivals from the west coast, Stanford, which finished second with 42 points.

Decided In Final

Southern California's sixth team victory, since 1925, was so close and hard-fought, however, that it took the final event to decide the issue. With the two west coast teams dead-locked, Charley Parsons, Trojan sprinter, came through in the 200 meter dash to win third place and collect the three points that clinched the meet.

Eastern teams, as well as representatives of the south and midwest, failed to figure in the team battle, Cornell, Yale and New York university wound up in a tie for third place, with 16 points each.

Two records were smashed as John Lyman of Stanford achieved 52 feet, 8¼ inches in the shot put, surpassing the listed world record as well as wiping out the former I. C. A. A. A. A. week end record created by New 1-8 inches to set a new meet standard in the high jump, but the chief individual honors went to Bill Bonthron.

Princeton's superb foot-racer, the only double victor of the day, romped to a 1500-meter victory in 3 minutes 54 seconds, then came back little more than an hour later to win the 800-meter final in 1 minute 53.5 seconds, leaving Ben Eastman, Stanford captain, floundering in his flying wake, among others.

Bath Places Third

Bonthron finished a good five yards ahead of Cornell's captain, Joe Mangan, in the 1500-meter run, with Frank Crowley, Manhattan star, third. The Tiger ace, duplicating his burst of stretch speed, came from behind again to beat Dunaway of Penn State by three yards in the 800. Eastman finished fourth, just behind Pongrace of Michigan state.

Eastman's defeat, in his hard-luck farewell to I. C. A. A. A. A. competition, was the mildest kind of an upset by comparison to the unexpected defeat of black-haired Joe McCluskey, of Fordham, considered just about unbeatable. McCluskey met his waterloo in little Jack Ryan of Manhattan college, who passed the Fordham star to the amazement of a crowd of 15,000 in the back-stretch of the last lap and left Joe floundering with a brilliant finish in the 3,000 meter final.

Scarcely less surprising was the failure of any of the highly-touted champions or record-holders in the pole vault to clear anything better than 13 feet 6 inches. Five of them finished in a tie for first place at that figure, after all missed three chances at 14 feet, including Keith Brown of Yale, eastern favorite; Bill Graber of Southern California, national champion and holder of the best vault on record; and Bill Miller of Stanford, Olympic title-holder who was handicapped by a weak, bandaged ankle.

Lucas' Home Run As Pinch Hitter Wins For Cincy

Cincinnati, May 27, (AP)—Red Lucas, serving in his occasional role as a pinch hitter, gave the Reds a 4 to 3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers for a clean sweep of their series today. Lucas, batting for Rollie Hemsley in the sixth, hit the first home run he ever has made in the home park in eight years with the Reds and drove in two runners ahead of him.

The only other run off Ray Benge came when the Brooklyn hurler hit Harry Rice with a pitched ball while the corners were crammed in the first. An error by Jim Bottomley, combined with singles by Jimmy Jordan and Chick Outen and a double play, gave the Dodgers two runs in the second and Del Bissonette's double and Outen's single scored another in the seventh.

Marquette U. Stars Display Their Wares

Stars of the Marquette university track team will make exhibition appearances in three major high school cinder path shows within the next fortnight, according to announcement of Track Coach Conrad M. Jennings.

PONZANI-FB

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette Olympic sprinting marvel, ran the 100-yard dash at the international prep meet at Green Bay, Wis., yesterday afternoon, and then left for Fort Madison, Ia., for a Decoration day appearance in the high school relay carnival there.

Carroll Roark and Dick Schram, pole vaulters, and Eugene (Tuffy) Ronzani, javelin and shotput ace, of the Marquette team will perform in the Escanaba, Mich., relays, June 3. Schram's home is at Escanaba and Ronzani's at Iron Mountain, Mich., nearby.

Several stars of the Marquette university track team will make their final home appearance in varsity uniforms on Friday night, June 2, as the eighth annual Central inter-collegiate meet is run off in the Marquette stadium. Hilltoppers being lost through graduation and the three year rule include Capt. Jack Tierney, 440; Dick Schram and Jerry Jelinek, pole vaulters; Bob Nevin, high jumper; Gene Ronzani, field events, and Joe Kores, halfmiler. Standouts of the Marquette squad will appear in the national intercollegiate in Chicago, Ill., June 16 and 17.

9 LETTER ATHLETE

Ronzani, Marquette university's first nine-letter athlete, is looking for five-leaf clovers! The Dashing Grenadier found such a good luck piece as he started track practice one afternoon recently and promptly turned in two of his best individual performances of the season—191 feet in the javelin and 46 feet in the shotput.

Cardinals Easily Win From Phillies

St. Louis, May 27, (AP)—Unloosing a powerful batting attack as of old, the St. Louis Cardinals buried the last place Phillies under an avalanche of hits today and took the second game of the series, 1 to 1.

The Cards pounded Phil Collins for 14 hits and eight runs in the first four innings, while Pickrel held the locals to four hits and two runs in the remaining four innings.

Bill Hallahan let the visitors down with eight hits. The Phils sole run was scored in the fifth on a double by Lee followed by Davis' single.

BOOSTER GAME HAS INTEREST

Baseball Opener Will Be at State Fairgrounds Diamond

The Escanaba baseball team will make its debut at the state fairgrounds diamond this afternoon at 3 o'clock, opposing the much heralded Munising city club in a booster attraction that promises to bring out a very large attendance. Efforts to revive hard ball in this city have met with a responsive chord from local fans and it is believed that the game today will play a major part in placing the national pastime on a more firm standing here.

Burns is scheduled to take the mound for the Escanaba team with Brazeau in reserve while Moberg will receive. Moreau also will be available for duty behind the plate.

The Munising team is reported to have a fast, speedy aggregation and is coming to this city intent on chalking up another victory over the Escanaba crew. Munising edged out the locals here last year, 2 to 1, in an interesting battle.

Escanaba will be represented by a fast, ambitious crew. Manager Murray Boyle has stated. The players have been practicing regularly for the past two weeks are in first class shape for the seasoner's opener.

Proceeds from today's game will be used to defray the cost of uniforms and equipment and if sufficient funds are taken in today future admissions will be reduced, it was stated. A brisk advance sale of tickets was reported, indicating that fan interest in the Escanaba team is rapidly developing.

Among the Escanaba players who will be seen in action against Munising besides the batteries announced above are such favorites as Schwalbach, Gregory, Anderson, Schram, Boyle, and others. All are veterans and comers will also get an opportunity to strut their stuff.

Eskymos Make A Slam In Tennis Matches Saturday

Escanaba high school players won all six matches in the tennis meet at Iron Mountain on Saturday, beating a combined Kingsford and Iron Mountain high school team.

In the singles matches Chester Olson beat Ryan of Kingsford by scores of 9-11, 6-4, 6-3; Harry Monson downed Henkley, Iron Mountain in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1; Stratton defeated McKain, Kingsford, 7-5, 6-3; and Meloche won from Brouillier, Iron Mountain, 7-5, 6-3.

Henkin and Buckbee took a love set, lost the second 7-9 and then came back to take the final 6-1 in their doubles match with Conley and Roberts of Iron Mountain high. In the final match Bartella and Lindsley had no trouble in beating Wailers and Ferris of Kingsford 6-4, 6-1.

DETROIT DROPS SERIES FINALE

Athletics Get Home Run Complex and Win by 5 to 2 Score

Philadelphia, May 27 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers, who qualified as a heavy hitting aggregation yesterday, traded places with the Philadelphia Athletics this afternoon, losing the final game of the series, 5 to 2.

Fred Marberry opened up on the mound for Detroit, but found the going tough in the sixth inning when Johnson hit a home run. Coleman singled and Miller tripled, and gave way to Herring who finished the game.

Gerald Walker's home run in the sixth inning, scoring Gehringer ahead of him, accounted for the Tigers' only tallies of the day. Mickey Cochrane, the Macks' catcher, poled out circuit clouts twice, his first coming in the second with no one on, and his second in the fifth again with no mates on the paths. Johnson and Higgins each added a home run blow.

In spite of all the home runs, the game showed a total of only 12 hits, five by Detroit and seven by the A's.

Freitas was relieved by Lefty Grove in the seventh inning after the Tigers had scored their two runs. They collected only one more hit from Grove, and failed to produce a score.

American Netters Complete Sweep In Argentina Series

Chevy Chase Club, Washington, May 27, (AP)—A mighty United States Davis Cup team today completed a clean sweep of its matches on this side of the Atlantic, recording a 4-0 victory over Argentina and losing its only battle to a heavy rain that drowned out the day's final singles contest.

A pair of doughty Argentines today put on a sensational last-ditch battle against America's best, however, before the final score was written down.

Ellsworth Vines, United States number one man and Wimbledon champion, was forced to call on his best shot making and much of his burning speed before downing Hector Catarurza, 7-5, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4.

Wilmer Allison, American captain, was leading Adriano Zappa, Argentine team leader, 6-2, 6-1, with the games at 2-all in the third set, when a downpour interrupted play for a second time during the day.

The two captains finally settled their match orally, deciding in a conference that the contest would be declared "officially cancelled" rather than defaulted by either side, and that the team score would be officially recorded a 4-0 for the United States.

George "Mule" Haas is the only regular member of the Chicago White Sox lineup who bats left handed.

Both Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals and Merritt (Sugar) Cain of the Athletics got their first pitching experience while serving in Uncle Sam's Army.

Lou Finney, Athletic outfielder, was born at Buffalo, Ala., and his middle name is Klopsche.

Auburn and Vanderbilt will resume football relations in 1934 and 1935.

VETERANS GET NEW BENEFITS

Revised Rules Drafted; Battle-Injured Are Reassured

By NEA Service

Washington—The New Deal, as the administration originally intended to apply it to veterans of the World War who are beneficiaries of the federal government, turned out to be a misdeal.

So the cards are to be dealt over again. Several hundred thousand persons from the Veterans' Administration do not know just what they will draw, but they have the assurances of President Roosevelt that new economy regulations will be administered humanely, and with a minimum of hardship for those who are suffering from battle injuries or disabilities connected with service.

President Roosevelt, seeking to balance the budget, turned to the ever-mounting appropriations for veterans as his chief field for saving. Expenditures had approached the billion-dollar mark, and were roughly a fourth of the entire outlay of the government.

Budget estimates were drawn for an appropriation of $486,000,000, which was $460,000,000 less than the amount in a bill previously passed by Congress and pocket-vetoed by President Hoover during his last days in the White House.

New Survey Ordered

Then the Veterans' Administration issued 40 typewritten sheets of regulations to put the economies into effect. Immediately there was an avalanche of complaints.

Veterans' organizations and individuals deluged members of Congress and administrative officials with demands for modification of the orders on the grounds that they were grossly unfair.

Telling pleas were made on behalf of the 340,000 men receiving payment for service-connected disabilities; it was contended benefits to this group would be reduced by half.

President Roosevelt decided that the economy axe had cut too deep. He ordered a new survey before the regulations went into effect July 1. Government hospitals would not be closed. The 55 regional offices of the Veterans' Bureau would remain open.

It was announced that "the regulations and schedules would be drafted so as to effect the most humane possible treatment of veterans truly disabled in war service." Also, "careful study" was to be made of other regulations and their effects.

Reports July 1

So Brig.-Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, is checking every regulation and will report to the president before July 1, when the reduced payments were to have gone into effect. How far modification will go is a matter for conjecture.

Veterans' spokesmen figured that the new bill made reductions of 61 per cent or $361,000,000 in and service and non-service connected pensions and compensation, spread among the various groups as follows: World War, 62 per cent; Spanish War, 66 per cent; Civil War, 10 per cent; Indian Wars, 10 per cent; regular pensioners, 15 per cent.

The old compensation schedule, based on earnings of a man at the time of enlistment, was wiped out, and a new one set up which measured disability of all alike, and cut payments 20 per cent. The new rates for war-incurred disability were in five classes, ranging from $8 a month for 10 per cent disability, to $80 a month for total.

Service-connected disability by presumption was limited to a year.

Some Examples

The World War allowance of $40 a month for non-service permanent disability — which had been opposed as the beginning of a World War pension system—was abolished. Payments of $20 a month for total and permanent disability only was substituted, and then only to persons in need.

Some 406,000 men who had been receiving allowances for non-service disability less than total, were to be removed from the rolls. Non-service pensions of Spanish War veterans also were cut out.

Veterans were to be admitted to hospitals and soldiers' homes only in service-connected cases. Non-service admittance would be restricted to veterans with permanent disabilities, tuberculosis, or neuropsychiatric disease, who could not earn a living and who have no means of support.

Disability emergency officers of the World War were to get no retirement pay unless their disabilities came from service. Widows and orphans of veterans whose death was directly connected with the service would receive no pension cuts.

A Re-Deal for Some

Stories were told of individual instances of hardships. There was a veteran in a soldiers' home at Dayton who lost his pension and was obliged to turn in his clothes, and who started to walk home in his underwear.

A case in Cleveland involved a bedridden veteran, suffering from sleeping sickness, who has a dependent wife. His compensation was to be cut from $150 to $20 monthly.

A Washington, D. C., veteran was getting $58 a month for gunshot wounds that destroyed the muscles of one leg—he had helped bury the first four men killed in the war. He was classed as unemployable, having been a barber, and found he would be cut to $20.

A Virginia veteran suffering from shrapnel wounds which made his right arm useless, was getting $46 a month and was to have been entirely cut off. He protested and will get from $20 to $40.

A New Orleans veteran who lost the use of an arm and who has been getting $67 was slated for a reduction to $8.

These cases, under the president's plan for reconsideration, and others like them, will be subject to appeal and review.
